

Esopus and the Bridge . . . Fight Goes On

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN
Despite continuing complaints by Town of Esopus residents, Supervisor George Freer is now resigned to the fact that the Department of Transportation will repair, rather than replace, the Rondout Creek Bridge.

But it appears that Freer and his fellow townspeople won't give up the fight until the renovation actually begins.

Wednesday's Esopus Town Board meeting once again featured heated discussion on DOT plans to spend $500,000 to repair the dilapidated structure. A number of town residents voiced their complaints over the proposed project.

"It looks like it's a lost cause," Freer told The Freeman today. "I doubt if we can persuade the Department of Transportation to reconsider."

Freer, and most residents of Esopus, want the state to build a new bridge. But the state has balked at the $10 million price tag that would accompany such a project.

Freer said Wednesday that the Department of Transportation has all but committed itself to the structure's renovation. Bids for the project, in fact, are expected to be opened in DOT offices in Albany today.

Renovation of the span over the Rondout Creek would necessitate its closing for an estimated six months. During that time, traffic would be rerouted through New Salem and across the Eddyville bridge. The detour, more than the absence of a new span, seems to disturb residents the most.

Freer said Wednesday that he has been notified that DOT engineers will be moving into the town shortly to conduct test soundings to determine the most feasible route for a detour. "That indicates they're serious about the project," said Freer.

The Esopus Supervisor added that an absence of support from Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) for a new bridge has contributed to the failure of his proposal. Freer said that Bell favors renovation of the bridge rather than construction of a new span.

"It seems that the closing (and renovation) of the bridge is now a reality," said Freer.

But Freer said he will continue with his efforts to change DOT's mind. He assured town residents Wednesday night that he will forward all their letters of complaint to the Transportation Department in an attempt to pressure for a change in plans.

"If they do go ahead with the renovation of the bridge," said Freer, "that means we'll have to wait another 20 years before we get a new one. That's an awful long time. The bridge won't stand forever."

But there was good news too at Wednesday's Town Board meeting. Freer announced that the Ulster County Board of Health has given the go-ahead for the reopening of the Esopus Bathing Beach.

For the past several years, the Board of Health has prohibited usage of the facility because the pollution level in that section of the Hudson River was deemed unsafe. But recent tests of the water there indicated that the pollution levels were satisfactory for swimming.

As a result, the town will begin work at the site to prepare it for an opening before the end of summer.

A crackdown on violators of the 11 p.m. Ross Park curfew was also promised at Wednesday's meeting.

End-War Issue Heads for House Vote

TROUBLE ON THE DOCKS—Police struggle as they push back a line of dockers to clear the way for a lorry entering the trouble-torn docks in Keaddy, England. Police arrested 22 dockers. Hundreds of striking longshore-

WASHINGTON—A rider ordering U.S. forces out of the Indochina war this year headed for a House vote today with some leaders saying it could carry a military foreign-aid bill to defeat.

Leaders on both sides of the war issue predicted the man-voice vote would be rejected by date to pull U.S. forces out of Indochina in return for release of American prisoners and a limited cease-fire would be narrowly rejected.

Some, including Speaker Carl Albert and Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, said a $2.1-billion military foreign-aid bill could be voted down if the war-pullout mandate stays in it. Albert said he feared the bill could be rejected regardless.

But House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said: "They'd better take this one if they want any foreign-aid bill. This is the swan song as far as I am concerned."

The Senate already has rejected President Nixon's foreign military-aid requests. Morgan indicated that if the House did the same, foreign aid would not be dead but would be continued on an interim basis.

The war-pullout directive originally carried a deadline of Oct. 1 before House antiwar forces changed it to Dec. 31 to carry it past the November elections and give Nixon a longer period to withdraw the troops.

The directive would order all U.S. military forces in or over Indochina withdrawn so long as American prisoners were returned, GIs missing in enemy territory were accounted for and a cease-fire was established. The only exception would be for protection of withdrawing forces.

The mandate would carry the force of law but not cut off money for the war as would have a measure approved by the Senate.

In opening votes on the foreign aid bill, the House Wednesday night rejected by voice vote efforts to cut off U.S. aid to Cambodia and Thailand and to suspend aid to Portugal.

The key to the end war issue was Speaker Albert, D-Okla., until now a down-the-line supporter of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

But as of today Albert had still not said publicly which way he would vote on a proposal to halt direct American military involvement in the Indochina War in exchange for U.S. prisoners, an accounting of the missing and a limited cease-fire to allow American forces to withdraw from the area.

The provision is included in a $2.1 billion overseas military aid bill which the House has debated off and on over the past two days.

There were reports Wednesday that both Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate who has long been an opponent of the war, and Nixon had gotten in touch with Albert, but neither side would confirm them.

Albert is a steadfast supporter of aid to South Korea and the administration has been warning that the $215 million earmarked for that ally, the $350 million slated for Israel as well as the entire bill would be jeopardized by defeat or a veto if the antiwar proposal stayed in.

Cong to U.S. . . . Get Out Formula

(Combined Wire Dispatches)

PARIS—The Viet Cong insisted today "there is no other way" to end the Vietnam war except for the United States to get out and stop supporting the present Saigon government.

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief negotiator for the Viet Cong, stepped up her attacks on the regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam at the 154th session of the Paris peace talks.

She called it "an administration of repression and terror" which was "set up by the United States to serve as an instrument of 'Vietnamization' of the war."

Mrs. Binh declared that if the U.S. government really wants to reach a solution to the war "there is no other way than at the same time as the total withdrawal of the American troops from South Vietnam, it stop supporting the bellicose group now in power," in Saigon.

The U.S. representative at the talks, William J. Porter, earlier told the Communists their charges of war crimes by South Vietnam and its allies are "unconvincing propaganda, especially when set beside the record of severity and harshness during your current massive offensive."

Regarding United States air

and naval activities against North Vietnam," Porter told the Hanoi delegation, "you are fully aware that you have called down these measures upon yourselves by unleashing your invasion of the South."

He said that Communist criticism that President Nixon's peace proposals do not deal with political questions "is rendered meaningless by your refusal to begin the search for political solutions by discussions with South Vietnamese representatives."

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam urged a cease-fire which, he said, would help chances for a political settlement.

He said military and political problems are linked, but told the Communists this "does not give you any right to impose your own political solution as precondition to a cease-fire."

Meanwhile, on the war front, Allied troops today prepared for possible Communist assaults on the former Vietnamese imperial capital of Hue. The Saigon government rushed hundreds of reinforcements into the city.

Military sources in neighboring Cambodia said the current Communist drive southeast of Phnom Penh posed a direct threat to the capital.

South Vietnamese marines attempting to recapture the Communist-held provincial capital of Quang Tri were hit by a 10-hour, 320-round artillery barrage Wednesday and killed 61 North Vietnamese regulars in fighting on the southeast edge of town, government spokesmen said.

To the south, 60 miles north of Saigon, other government soldiers took a hill near the besieged province capital of An Loc in a two-day bayonet and grenade fight, the South Vietnamese command said Wednesday.

Fearing a Communist guerrilla-style infiltration and attack offensive, South Vietnamese officials moved 600 additional militia reinforcements to Hue, stationing them on roofs and at major intersections. An estimated 10,000 North Vietnamese troops are believed to be hiding in hills near Hue.

The allied commands now have announced these total casualties for the war:

American—45,843 killed in action, 303,296 wounded in action, 10,246 dead from nonhostile causes, 1,645 missing or captured.

South Vietnamese—152,043 killed, 393,816 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—870,381 killed.

Senate Bans 'Saturday Night Specials'

The Next Step Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — A marily at cheap, snub-nosed, ban on the sale of easily concealable handguns has been kind commonly called "Saturday night specials," but it also to an uncertain fate in the House.

The Senate passed the measure, 68 to 25, late Wednesday after three days of debate and overwhelming rejection of stronger gun controls.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the bill's chief sponsor, said it would "take out of the market place the weapons used most frequently by criminals."

The Senate bill is aimed pri-

Bayh estimated the bill would ban the sale of about one million of the 2½ million pistols and revolvers sold each year in this country.

But it would do nothing about the millions of handguns now privately owned.

The Senate rejected attempts to outlaw private ownership of handguns and to require registration of all firearms and licensing of gun owners.

The Senate did adopt amendments making the murder or attempted murder of police, firemen and prison guards on active duty a federal crime and providing for prior-models until the Secretary of the Treasury acted to discourage use or possession of a firearm.

The bill also was amended to ban on imports of handguns not suitable for sporting purposes set an additional separate penalty for carrying or using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

The Senate rejected, 70 to 27, bill.

Under an agreement offered L. Hruska, R-Neb., to permit by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, dealers to sell present stocks of and approved by voice vote, the handguns outlawed by the bill would have been sold if suitable legislation. It would have allowed continued sales of all for self-protection.

Reapportion, Charter Revision

Key Council Groups Appointed

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
Alderman at Large T. Robert Gallo has named Common Council committees on reapportionment and on charter revision, appointing Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of reapportionment and Alderman John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward), chairman of charter revision.

Quick's committee will include Alderman John F. Coffey (D-First Ward), Clarence C. Stoutenburg (D-Fourth Ward), Edmond J. Roux (R-Ninth Ward), and Thomas M. Davitt (R-Seventh Ward). Finch's committee includes Aldermen Joseph R. McGrane (D-Second Ward), Brian D. Smith (R-Third Ward), Emilio A. Primo (March) then the aldermen will be running for two year terms in 1973 in the new districts.

The last time the city was reapportioned, in 1968, it did not work that way. The aldermen ran for one-year terms in their old districts in 1967, ran for address on Jan. 1, 1972. At that another one-year term in the time, Koenig called for a four-year term in 1968 and then year term for mayor, replacing in the mayoral elections of 1969 the current two-year term.

ran for full two-year terms in Koenig also called for piecemeal the new districts. It added up revision of the charter, noting to three elections in two years, that major charter revisions had a situation that city officials been rejected by the public in want to avoid this time.

The Republican City Committee can be expected to challenge any reapportionment plan put out by the Democrats, who now control the majority of the Common Council by a 9-4 margin.

The Charter Revision Committee already has a request from Mayor Francis R. Koenig, defavor of it.

SAUGERTIES
Dr. Dexter O. Arnold is back on the job as Superintendent of the Saugerties Central School District, and it now appears that he will remain there until the State Education Department completes a hearing on his dismissal by the Board of Education.

In a Special Term of State Supreme Court in Kingston, Justice Harold J. Hughes denied a motion by the Board of Education for a preliminary injunction that would have prevented Dr. Arnold from assuming duties as Superintendent of Schools pending the outcome of the hearing.

The court ruled, in effect, that Dr. Arnold is innocent until proven guilty; that he can keep his job until it is determined in a hearing that his dismissal was justified.

More important to the legal aspects of the case, however, the court ruled that the State Education Department has the jurisdiction to review and rule on Dr. Arnold's dismissal by the school board.

The Board of Education fired Dr. Arnold at a special meeting on June 30. The deposed Superintendent then filed an appeal with the State Education Department requesting that his case be reviewed. In the meantime, the Commissioner of Education ordered that Dr. Arnold be reinstated as Superintendent of Schools until the review and a hearing could be completed.

Subsequent court proceedings have centered around the State Education Department's intervention in the matter. The Board of Education had contended that the State Education Department does not have the jurisdiction to intervene in a dispute between a school district and one of its employees.

Justice Hughes explained this week why he denied the motion for a preliminary injunction: "The request for the injunction was based on the fact that the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction to review the case. Under Section 310 of the Education Law, it appears likely that he has such jurisdiction."

As a result, said Justice Hughes, "Dr. Arnold will continue as Superintendent of Schools under the court's ruling" until the hearing is completed.

Dismissal Vetoed

ALLABEN
The Shandaken Town Board has unanimously rejected a petition calling for dismissal of the entire town planning board.

The petition, signed by several hundred persons, was presented at Wednesday night's town board meeting, and was based on opposition to the new mobile home ordinance enacted by the town board in June. The ordinance passed was a revised version of one defeated by the town board following a public hearing on May 25 at which extensive opposition was voiced. The major change reduced minimum trailer lot size from one acre to one-half acre.

Supervisor Raymond J. Dunn defended the planning board, which is headed by chairman Frederick Muehleck. "We have a very dedicated planning board and we're proud of their work," he said.

The town has five trailer parks with about 100 trailers. There were no controls over trailer parks until the ordinance was passed.

The recently formed Shandaken Civic Association, headed by Martin Schoenfeld of Mount Tremper, presented a lengthy list of complaints to the board. Chief among these was a complaint about the stench from dead deer lying along the roads in the town. Game Warden Henry Bernstein said that the Conservation Department is no longer responsible for removing dead animals, which are the responsibility of the highway department or of the owner if they are on private property.

The board directed a letter of protest to the DEC office in New Paltz protesting against the new policy.

Mrs. Charlotte Jacobsen, chairman of the Environmental Council, announced that a depot had been secured in back of McGrath's Market in Phoenicia for recycling aluminum cans, paper, and glass. Dates and times when materials can be left there will be announced later.

Saugerties School Controversy

Judge Rules in Favor of Dr. Arnold

"It is simply a practical matter," said Justice Hughes, "Dr. Arnold should not be denied employment until this litigation is completed."

The Board of Education may appeal Justice Hughes' ruling. Although Board president Robert Francello indicated that such recourse is not likely, "The jurisdiction in this case has now been determined," he said. "I imagine now that we will go ahead with the hearing."

Since Dr. Arnold's initial appeal to the Commissioner of Education, the school board has fought to prevent the State Education Department from intervening in the case.

Dr. Arnold's attorney, Morris Rosenblum of the law firm of Rosenblum and Lamb of Saugerties, told The Freeman Wednesday, "We had no question but that we would win; justice and the law itself was with us."

Rosenblum cited a portion of Section 310 of the Education Law that he says clearly indicates that the State Education Department has jurisdiction in the matter: "Any person conceiving himself aggrieved may appeal or petition to the Commissioner of Education, who is hereby authorized and required to examine and decide the same. . . . Such appeal may be made in consequence of any action by any school district meeting or by any other official act or decision of any office, school authorities or meetings concerning any other matter under (the Education Law)."

The next step in the Dr. Arnold affair, then, is the review and hearing by the Commissioner of Education. Rosenblum said that if the Commissioner moves expeditiously, there should be a hearing before long. Both sides are hoping for a hearing by September or October.

Dr. Arnold remains in charge of the school district until then. He told The Freeman Tuesday that he is now involved in preparing the district for the opening day of school in September.

City GOPs Tab Kapreilian

KINGSTON
The Kingston City Republican Committee met in special convention Wednesday night in the Ulster County office building, and as expected, nominated Harry C. Kapreilian to run for county legislator from Kingston this November.

Kapreilian, appointed a county legislator in July by Gov. Rockefeller to fill the term of the late William F. Edelmuth until Dec. 31, 1972, will face Democrat-Conservative William G. Davis for the additional one-year in Edelmuth's unexpired term.

Kapreilian was nominated by James DeCicco, a Ninth Ward

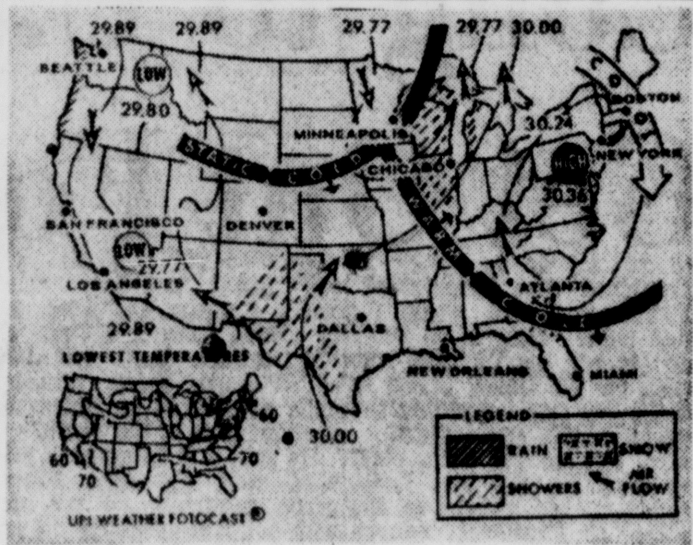

Committeeman. His nomination was seconded by Tony Erena, a Third Ward Republican. The nomination was unanimous.

The candidate declared that he would "start my campaign tomorrow" and would work even harder than he did last year when he finished 10th in the overall running. Eight men were elected. Davis finished ninth.

Party Chairman Edward T. Feeney allowed that Davis' Conservative nomination will make Kapreilian's race "a little tougher because a lot of people will vote for the President on the Conservative ticket." "But if Harry runs the type of campaign that he says he is going to run, he'll do very well," Feeney said.

A message was read from County Chairman Albert Spada, who said the party could not afford to become complacent. "We can not take any contest for granted," Spada said. "We must wage a full-fledged campaign for Harry. We must be active and aggressive."

The Other Day

An article asked, "Have you ever had the unnerving experience on a wet day of finding your brakes wouldn't hold?" To avoid this hazard the AAA said motorists should drive at slow speeds through deep puddles, avoid making waves that splash. They made these recommendations: Slow down. Apply the brakes at frequent intervals. If they fail to hold properly, dry them out by depressing the brake pedal firmly with the left foot while accelerating just enough to keep the car moving. If traffic permits, test brakes again, then repeat the procedure if necessary. The purpose of our column and business is to SERVE YOU.

A BIG SMILE—Patrolman William Phillips has a big smile as he escorts his wife Camille into court in New York following dinner break. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Phillips . . . Ends in Mistrial

NEW YORK (AP) — The murder trial of suspended police patrolman William Phillips has ended in a mistrial after the jury, having deliberated for 22½ hours, declared itself hopelessly deadlocked.

Manhattan Supreme Court Justice John M. Murtagh declared the mistrial late Wednesday night after the jury foreman told him that any addition to the two days of deliberation "would be futile."

Manhattan Asst. Dist. Atty. John F. Keenan, said Phillips would be tried again for the Christmas Eve 1968 murders of a pimp and a prostitute in a brothel on Manhattan's East Side.

However, one of Phillips' lawyers said later that the defense would attempt to have the indictments against the admittedly corrupt cop dismissed. He said the defense had made such a motion after the jury's declaration, but that Murtagh had turned it down.

Phillips, a star witness at the Knapp Commission hearings into police corruption last year, was accused of shooting pimp James Smith and prostitute Sharon Stango after Smith reneged on a $1,000 payoff.

He was also accused of attempting to murder one of Miss Stango's customers, Charles Gonzales, the only survivor of the shooting incident. Gonzales had named Phillips as the killer, and other prosecution witnesses had placed him at the scene on the night of the shooting.

However, defense attorney F. Lee Bailey produced eight witnesses, including the 40-year-old patrolman's wife, who claimed Phillips was visiting friends and relatives in Queens on the night in question.

Phillips had admitted to shaking down the pimp, but claimed that their relationship had ended after 1965 and that he never saw Smith after that.

Phillips was caught in a different shakedown attempt and became an undercover agent for the Knapp Commission.

The defense claimed that Phillips was framed because of his work in exposing police corruption and his expected appearance in criminal indictments arising from his Knapp Commission work.

The jury of ten men and two women had begun their deliberations Tuesday. After returning Wednesday they notified the judge that they were deadlocked and asked that they be discharged. However, Justice Murtagh ordered them to keep trying to determine if Phillips was guilty.

Judge Murtagh set Oct. 2 as the tentative date for a new trial.

Mayor Lindsay Takes Issue With the Knapp Findings

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has taken issue with the Knapp Commission finding that the city's district attorneys are reluctant to prosecute cases of police corruption because they are allies of the police.

"I don't accept that," Lindsay told a news conference Wednesday. "My experience with the district attorneys of New York has been that they have been assiduous in their pursuit of wrongdoing in police matters and other matters."

The five district attorneys, who have taken sharp exception to the Knapp finding, scheduled a meeting Monday with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's legal counsel, Michael Whiteman, to discuss the commission recommendations.

They are expected to set forth their opposition to the proposal that Rockefeller appoint a special deputy attorney general to investigate and prosecute cases of corruption among the police, district attorneys' offices and the courts.

Whiteman Knapp, head of the commission which concluded from its two-year investigation that there was widespread police corruption, met with Whiteman on Tuesday to push the proposal for a special state prosecutor.

Rockefeller is currently on vacation and is not expected to have any comment on the report or its recommendations for several weeks.

Lindsay said Wednesday he viewed the report generally "very positively" but said he wanted to talk more with the district attorneys before commenting publicly on its specific recommendations.

He said he was "not as disturbed" about the recommendation for a special prosecutor as the district attorneys but expressed reservations about having a deputy attorney general looking for corruption in State Supreme Court.

"Traditionally," he said, "the New York State Attorney General's office has been so wired in and such a part of that whole system of electing State Supreme Court judges, the selection process and how it works, it is highly political, very political, and there's a real question as to whether that's the right office to be challenging that part of the system."

Lindsay praised Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan, Burton B. Roberts of the Bronx and Eugene Gold of Brooklyn for handling cases of police corruption "professionally and well."

Not mentioned specifically were Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas J. Mackell, whose office is the subject of a federal investigation, and John M. Braisted of Staten Island.

Boris, Bobby Play On and On

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Boris Spassky and Bobby Fischer played on and on.

Outside in the corridors grandmasters shook their heads, drained coffee cups and one said "Why are they so proud in there? It's the dearest draw in man's memory. One of them should give in and offer the draw."

Finally on the 55th move the Russian world champion looked up from the wooden board, Fischer nodded and put forward his hand. The 12th game in the $250,000 "match of the century" was split down the middle as every grandmaster had predicted since the adjournment on the 41st move Tuesday night.

The 13th game is scheduled to start at 1 p.m. EDT today with Spassky playing white pieces and moving first. Fischer has a 7 to 5 point lead and needs another 5 points to become the first American to win the title.

But after Spassky's devastating display and win in the 11th game, grandmasters predicted a battle royal for every half point.

Spassky bounced back after going through one of the worst spells in his 20-year career with five defeats and three draws in the last eight games against a player he mastered for 12 years.

"Another win for Spassky and the match is wide open and the chess world on fire again," said Fridrik Olafsson, the Icelandic grandmaster.

Denmark's Bent Larsen, one of the top five chess aces in the world, agreed and said: "At one stage during the game Schmid chased two young boys from the front seats reserved for grandmasters. But the chess aces prefer the corridors, the crowded cafeteria or the press rooms to analyze, discuss and comment on the game."

Twice, in the closing minutes of the 29-year-old challenger got out of his $470 swivel chair, stomped over to the German arbiter Lothar Schmid, to complain about the noise.

At one stage during the game Schmid chased two young boys from the front seats reserved for grandmasters. But the chess aces prefer the corridors, the crowded cafeteria or the press rooms to analyze, discuss and comment on the game."

Continuous compounding — higher annual yields on your savings.

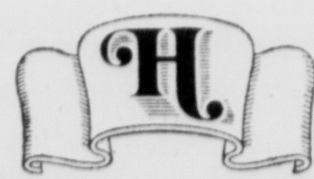

Heritage Savings Bank compounds interest continuously on all savings accounts. This method, made possible by federal regulations, allows depositors more earnings per year, if interest is left to accumulate in the account.

The rates are the same and the highest allowed by law. The change is the continuous compounding of interest every second of every day of the year. At Heritage Savings Bank, your effective annual yield is now greater than ever before.

6.27%	effective annual yield on	6%	a year Certificates of Deposit (2 to 5 years—minimum deposit of $1000)
5.20%	effective annual yield on	5%	Regular Savings Accounts and Day of Deposit to Day of Withdrawal Accounts

Other term accounts at Heritage Savings Bank also yield higher annual growth through continuous compounding: 6% on 5-3/4% a year certificates of deposit and 5.46% on 5-1/4% a year certificates of deposit. All term accounts are guaranteed, with interest paid quarterly, on minimum deposits of $1000.

If you want to know more about continuous compounding call or stop in at one of our offices. We'll be happy to show you how Heritage Savings Bank continues providing for your future.

Board Adopts New Section

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
The New Paltz Town Board busied itself with three important zoning and development matters at its meeting Wednesday night.

In separate actions, the board adopted a new Planned Unit Development section for town zoning laws, declared a moratorium on new apartment applications for three months, and accepted a request for a PUD or hamlet zoning change from New Paltz Growers Inc.

In adopting the PUD section, the board replaced the old New Hamlet section in the ordinances. In a PUD, or what used to be called a hamlet, a developer is allowed to create an entire new community, with varying types of housing, commercial development, and open space, according to an individually approved plan, all on a single large tract.

The new PUD section is longer, more detailed, and tougher than the hamlet section it replaces. It lowers the density allowable to 5.5 units per acre, and sets a ratio of two apartments to one town house to one single-family dwelling for the PUD.

Councilman George Mackey said the density per acre under the old hamlet section was "from three to 21," depending on who was arguing.

Louis Fagan, and others, argued from the floor that the new PUD section was "full of loopholes," but Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello said their objections were met by the section. Town Attorney Wendell Harp said he felt the action was "a proper concept and a good approach."

According to the terms of the moratorium on new apartments approved by the board, no new applications or plans will be accepted for consideration, and no building permits issued, until Nov. 10.

The three-month apartment halt is supposed to allow the planning board time to come up with revised regulations governing R-2 multiple residence districts, and multi-family dwellings. Moriello said it was anticipated that the revised regulations would be much stricter than the present ones.

Bernard Sommers, of the Newburgh law firm of McCann, Ahern, & Sommers, asked how the moratorium would affect the request for a zoning change by his clients, New Paltz Growers.

The zoning change request was filed with Town Clerk Theodore Lasher, Monday, Aug. 7. NPG's zoning change request with regard to the Leahville hamlet was turned down by the board in May.

Jack Erman, a principal in NPG, told The Freeman the four reasons for turning down the proposal cited by the town board had to do with the map submitted; he said the proper changes had been made.

The public hearing on the PUD section was held last Wednesday, and Moriello had pressed for a decision at the special meeting following the hearing. He said at the time that a developer who submitted a request before the section was adopted would be working under the old hamlet section.

Sommers was assured that the moratorium had no effect on the zoning change request. Moriello made a personal request that any hamlet plans submitted be in line with the new PUD regulations.

Mackey asked if the zoning change request was being made under the old or the new section. Sommers did not answer at the meeting, asking that the question be put in writing so he could respond in writing.

Rhinebeck Land Donation

RHINEBECK
The Rhinebeck Town Board majority of the former Astor Wednesday night approved the donation of 1½ acres of land to the town from property off Rhinecliff Road.

The land was sought by the town for expansion of highway department facilities. It lies directly behind the present town buildings on Route 308.

Donating the property were Victor Weingarten and Roy

Neuberger, who acquired the majority of the former Astor property from Royal Hawaiian management several years ago. The transaction was arranged through Homer Staley, the landholders' agent.

In other business, the Board awarded a bid of $17,480 for an International dump truck with plow to Ben Funk, Inc. of Hudson. The town will float serial bonds totalling $15,000 for five years.

The Board went on record as approving the Rhinebeck Board of Education's recent commitment to have the public make greater use of the school grounds. Councilman Louis Asher said that the Recreation Commission especially would find this useful.

Supervisor William Allen said he had read in a newspaper that there was a "thaw" between the town and the school. "I never knew there was a freeze," he commented.

Allen also said that the recent meeting with Trautman Associates and county officials did not present the town with the information it needed regarding the future of the local solid waste landfill site. He continued that another meeting would be held with Robert L'Archeveque, solid waste committee chairman of the county Board of Representatives.

Highway Superintendent Orin Ven Etten reported that road improvements were proceeding or scheduled and work was being done to widen Mt. Ruess Road. The crews expect to start work rebuilding Hog Bridge on Montgomery Street in September.

'Non-Competitive' Exam for Fire Chief

KINGSTON

The Kingston Board of Fire Commissioners has called for a "non-competitive" Civil Service examination for fire chief. And acting Chief Robert L. Maines is the man the commissioners want for the test.

The decision was actually made late in June, following a special meeting between the fire commissioners, the Civil Service Board and a representative from the State Civil Service Commission.

"Non-competitive" means that Maines will be the only man taking the examination. One other man, Deputy Chief Hugh Greer, was eligible but the commissioners chose not to hold a competitive examination between the two offices.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, president of the fire board, explained the board's decision in regards to Maines, this way, "I feel, number one, that the present acting chief, Bob Maines, has the experience," the mayor said. "He is handling the position right now and since the board did choose him to fill the vacancy (on March 15, 1972, upon the official retirement of former Chief James M. Brett) I feel in good faith (that) the board (should) make available the non-competitive examination."

Koenig also revealed that a secretary will be hired in the fire department, breaking a precedent whereby the chief and deputy chiefs handled the clerical work for the department. Koenig noted that the fire department is the only major city department that does not have a secretary. The new secretary will work full-time in the fire department for several months and then will divide her time between the fire department and other departments at city hall. She will be hired, according to the mayor, within the next few weeks. Several applicants have been interviewed.

Acting Chief Maines was appointed a permanent paid fireman on Jan. 1, 1948, was promoted to lieutenant on Jan. 6, 1962, captain on Nov. 21, 1964 and deputy chief on Sept. 7, 1968.

The Civil Service examination for chief of the department will be given in November. If fourth chief.

Maines passes it, he would then be eligible for permanent appointment as the department's

Jail Sentences in Ellenville Case

By WALTER S. CLARK

ELLENVILLE
Two of three men arrested during an investigation by village police several weeks ago have been sentenced to the Ulster County jail by Police Justice Ronald W. Elias.

Police Sergeant John C. Corwin, who made the arrests on June 29 with Lieutenant John J. Phillips and Detective Sergeant George E. Sheehey, identified the two sentenced men as Herbert Rainey, 36, and Frank Williams, 39, both of Port Jervis Road, Monticello.

They pleaded guilty to charges of criminal trespass third degree and loitering for the purpose of using drugs first degree. The two were sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on each count. Judge Elias ordered the sentences to run concurrently.

The third man, Barry Bliden, 20, of Country Club Arms, Ellenville, pleaded guilty to criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree—marijuana and criminal trespass third degree. Sentencing was deferred and Bliden was committed for treatment at a local rehabilitation facility. Charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree and criminal possession of a hypodermic instrument previously filed against Rainey and Williams were withdrawn in court. A charge of resisting arrest against Rainey also was dropped.

Bliden also had been charged originally with possessing a hypodermic implement and loitering. Those charges have been withdrawn.

The men were arrested after a police investigation of complaints that they were in the cellar of a fish market at 119 Center Street.

The case of Binny Thomas, 49, of 3 Hickory Street, this village, also was in court. He was arrested by police last April 4 charged with petit larceny. He was accused of taking a pair of socks, panty hose and scarves from a local store. In court, Thomas pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 121 days in the county jail. He was given credit for time already served. George Pagano, 37, of 260 Fifth Avenue, New York City, who was arrested a week ago on a charge of petit larceny—shoplifting, also appeared before Judge Elias. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $100. Police said Pagano was accused of taking a set of electric grass shears from the Agway store in this community. The shears were valued at $19.95.

RHINEBECK, Livingston. During the anti-Masonic crusade of 1827-37 it was a minister of the Stone Church in Old Rhinebeck. He died in 1878. The father had hoped his son would become a minister of the gospel.

While standing in front of the Livingston office one day a Quittman witnessed the arrival of a coach followed by the local militia, which stopped at the Jacques Tavern (Beekman Arms).

An honor guard shot off a volley of musket balls and from the coach stepped General Lafayette, followed by Governor Morgan Lewis, General John Armstrong, and Chancellor Robert Livingston. Lafayette was then 63 years old and had come at the invitation of Chancellor Livingston to New York on his last visit to the United States.

The impression of this gathering must have had a profound effect on young Quittman, for he later became a general who fought in the Mexican War at the request of David Crockett. He later planted the American flag on the capital building in Mexico City with his volunteer regiment from Louisiana.

The post office in his home town of Old Rhinebeck was named "Monterey" in honor of a battle he had won. Later, Quittman became a candidate for president, but suffered an acute attack of indigestion and died. Some say he was poisoned.

Among his apprentice lawyers was John A. Quittman, whose father was a minister of the Stone Church in Old Rhinebeck. He died in 1878. The father had hoped his son would become a minister of the gospel.

The late Wilson Applegate was president of the First National Bank of Rhinebeck. He restored and repainted his home shortly before his death in 1971. It dates back to a period before it was occupied by the Hon. Francis Livingston in 1812. Livingston, son of Maturu Livingston, was a member of the New York State Assembly when he practiced law in the village.

He started his drug store here following the fire that destroyed half of the business section, probably the worst fire in the history of the village.

Dr. Baker, surgeon and druggist, treated his patients in the store on many occasions and what medicine he prepared reportedly came out of his fees.

The store later was owned by a very popular druggist named Jack Pitts, who wore his white coat to all church dinners and always excused himself after hastily eating, saying that he had to get back to the store.

In the early 1880s the Masonic Lodge was started and members met at the Bogardus Tavern upstairs. Some of the members were General Morgan Lewis, Dr. Robert Tillison, Dr. Hans Kierstedt, Henry

Ballot Battle . . . Decision Soon

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Monticello Supreme Court Justice Lawrence P. Cooke's third place ballot position in the Nov. 7 election for the State Court of Appeals was the subject of a hearing Wednesday in Kingston before Supreme Court Justice John L. Larkin.

Justice Cook, Democrat-Conservative candidate, contends that he has been unlawfully put in a disadvantaged ballot position opposite Republican-Liberal Sol Wachter of Great Neck. He maintains, through counsel, John S. McBride, that according to the Election Law each candidate has the right to a drawing of names for ballot positions.

Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo, who is responsible for certifying the ballots, reportedly drew the names of fellow Democrat Court of Appeals candidates Bernard S. Meyer of Nassau County and Nanette Dembitz, Manhattan Family Court Judge but did not include Justice Cooke's name in the balloting. Lomenzo apparently did not allow Cooke's inclusion because his Conservative endorsement would place him in a ballot position which might allow a person to vote twice for him on two different lines. In view of this Conservative endorsement, Lomenzo therefore placed him in the third position because it was more mechanically feasible inside the voting booth.

Earlier Justice Larkin signed an order prohibiting Lomenzo from certifying any ballots in localities in which the Court of Appeals race is on the ballot, pending the outcome of Wednesday's hearing.

Justice Larkin reserved decision but is expected to render an opinion soon because of the necessity to have the ballot certified across the state without delay.

Traditionally the Secretary of State places the names of candidates on the ballot in the order of their nomination.

The Republicans, who did not oppose each other in a primary contest as did the Democrats, had mutually agreed on their ballot positions, eliminating the need for a drawing or ruling by Lomenzo's office.

State officials then picked positions for Cooke's two running mates with Supreme Court Justice Meyer winning the first position and Judge Dembitz the second. Opposing them on the ballot at present are Republican-Conservative Judge Dominick L. Gabrielli of Bath and Hugh Jones of Ulster, former state bar association president.

County Exec... Variations

GOSHEN, N. Y. (UPI)—Wide variations in the administration of the dozen New York State counties utilizing the county executive form of government were revealed in a report released Wednesday by the State Association of County Executives.

Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso was listed as the highest paid, at $55,000 a year. Oneida County Executive William Bryant received the least, $22,000.

Erie County Executive Edward Regan said he reviews his appointments with political party leaders; others indicated some were reviewed, and Chemung, Monroe, Nassau, and Schenectady county executives said they did not clear the appointments with them at all. Edwin Michaelin, county executive in Westchester, merely said, "It depends."

The county staffs ranged from 1,100 in Chemung to more than 16,000 in Nassau. Welfare budgets ran from $11 million, with the low figure again in Chemung County, to $145 million in Westchester and $153 million in Nassau.

The figures were compiled by the staff of Orange County Executive Louis V. Mills, president of the association.

Other comparisons included: —Sales taxes are levied in all or part of nine of the 12 counties.

—Ten of the 12 have county-wide health departments.

—Nine operate county airports.

—Eight retain labor consultants.

—All operate central purchasing departments.

—Eleven have data processing operations.

—And, while seven of the 12 have industrial development agencies, only five have departments of consumer affairs.

The counties represent more than 70 per cent of the state's population outside of New York City, Mills said.

Those counties having the county executive form of government are: Broome, Chemung, Dutchess, Erie, Monroe, Nassau, Oneida, Onondaga, Orange, Schenectady, Suffolk, and Westchester.

Two Arrested For Drugs

RHINEBECK
Two Northern Dutchess county youths were arrested at 9 p.m. Wednesday by Rhinebeck State Police on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree following an investigation.

One youth was identified as Frank Kane Jr., 19, of this community. The name of the other, a 16-year-old resident of this village, was not released by authorities because he is eligible to be treated as a youthful offender and proceedings in his case will be sealed.

Arraigned before Town Justice Herman Tietjen, the youths were committed to the county jail in Poughkeepsie in lieu of $2,000 bail each.

Marijuana and LSD were the drugs involved. The arrests were made on warrants by BCI Investigator Joseph Waters and Trooper Dennis McGuire.

The Election Issues

A Gallup poll taken in mid-July disclosed that the war and the economy are the issues most on people's minds, with lawlessness a poor third. Although the issues had not changed from those of four years ago, their rank in importance had altered drastically.

For instance, in 1968, 52 per cent were most concerned about the war. The level of concern has dropped to 25 per cent. Then, 29 per cent were concerned over crime and lawlessness, now 10 per cent. And in 1968, nine per cent were concerned with the high cost of living, now 23 per cent.

However, when the question was asked, "What party do you think can best handle the matter that concerns you most?", the Democratic Party was named by 52 per cent in July, 1968, and the Republican Party by 48 per cent. This July, Democrats led, by 53 per cent to 47 per cent, over the Republicans. Nixon won over the voters by closing the four percentage gap four years ago and he has the job of closing a six per cent now, to win.

The interesting, and strange proposition, is that Nixon's performance ranked high after the Democratic National Convention. And, in this most recent poll, his performance on the war and on law and order are much better. The recovery is making things better for many people, and this can offset the cost of living.

College Athletics

Alumni will raise Cain about it, but a drive has begun to reduce the scope of collegiate athletics, especially the two money sports—football and basketball. Limitations have been adopted by various conferences and they will be presented for general adoption, at the NCAA convention next winter.

For instance, the Atlantic Coast Conference would put national limits on the number of athletes recruited—in football, a maximum of 70 scholarship players signed in two years and 40 in one year; and in basketball, a maximum of 10 in two years and six in one. These limits are in force at the Atlantic conference and have been adopted by the Pacific-8.

In addition, the practice of red-shirting (permitting an athlete to be eligible in his fifth year), and the custom of holding spring football practice, would both be abolished. There are even more controversial questions, though the Big 10 does not permit red-shirting nor do major independents such as Penn State or Syracuse. Now that freshmen are eligible in the two major sports, red-shirting should be abolished generally.

Collegiate football and basketball still draw capacity crowds. They should respond to logical and sensible regulations. If these rules are widely adopted, there would be no advantage to any school, and benefits to all.

MOST LIBERAL LOAN—To help six million Vietnam war veterans, the Small Business Administration has opened its most liberal loan program, to men and women who served in the armed forces anywhere after August 5, 1964, to borrow up to $50,000 repayable over 15 years at six per cent interest. They must prove that they cannot qualify for bank or other federal loans. It should give a start in business for thousands.

DIVIDED FAMILY—Regina Cahill, daughter of Republican Governor Cahill of New Jersey, predicted President Nixon will carry the state by the biggest margin in the state's history, despite the fact that she voted in the primary for Senator McGovern. Cahill encourages independence in his family. The result: 7 out of 8 vote for Nixon, which, he said, "reflects the general feeling in the country."

WASHINGTON — Senator George McGovern's selection of R. Sargent Shriver to be his vice-presidential running mate has been received with widespread approval by many Democrats, particularly among the Kennedy supporters. The enthusiasm of the Kennedy people is, of course, partly due to the fact that Shriver is a member of the family, having married a sister of the present Senator from Massachusetts.

Sargent Shriver, however, has a record of public service which has put him in the limelight from time to time, not only as Ambassador to France but as director of the Peace Corps and of the Office of Economic Opportunity in the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations. The real mystery is why Senator McGovern didn't pick him at once when Senator Eagleton withdrew from the ticket.

Obviously there are political advantages on the Shriver side. Assuming that President Nixon is reelected, looking ahead to 1976, Senator Edward Kennedy will probably be running for the presidency. So Sargent Shriver's involvement in national politics would be of great assistance to him. If Senator McGovern should win this year, Senator Kennedy would hardly be his opponent at the 1976 convention. Senator Kennedy wants to be president but is in no hurry about it. If he doesn't run in 1976, he can wait until 1980. He is a young man and probably will continue to be a member of the Senate during the intervening years. He hopes eventually to win the presidency, but his supporters say he would rather make the race a little later in life anyway, so that the incidents unfavorable to him in politics would have been forgotten.

Meanwhile, the presence of Sargent Shriver in Democratic Party activities will be an asset to the Kennedy cause, which has been a prominent one in American public affairs since 1960.

Reports indicate that the selection of Shriver has been accepted by Democrats in different parts of the country after approval by the Democratic National Committee, which met to formalize the choice made by the party's presidential nominee.

While the Eagleton episode probably has had some unfavorable effects on Senator McGovern's prestige, the introduction of Sargent Shriver is likely to turn attention to a vice-presidential nominee who is the kind of man who satisfies the viewpoint of the principal leaders of the party. Once the Vice-Presidential nomination process is finished, Sargent Shriver will become a conspicuous figure in the campaign. He will make numerous speeches and will draw large crowds. He has held important positions and will appeal to groups which have supported Kennedys in the past. The only wonder is why Senator McGovern didn't recommend him at the outset.

With the problem of completing the Democratic ticket out of the way, the campaign will begin to resemble a normal contest for the Presidency which the country witnesses when a President who has been in power for a first term seeks re-election.

This year, the big factor will be related to how many people will actually vote. In the 1968 election, according to census statistics, 45 million Americans of voting age didn't go to the polls. With the voting age reduced to 18, it is estimated that about 25 million young Americans will be eligible to vote for the first time. If a sizable proportion of them go to the polls, they will have a substantial impact on public policy at local, state and national levels.

It is evident that both the Republicans and Democrats will work hard to get citizens to register and vote. It is remembered that Mr. Nixon won with a total of less than 32 million votes but in the same year 45 million citizens who could have voted didn't do so. The effort now will be to persuade not only the 25 million new voters to register and go to the polls but also the older people, many of whom stayed away from the polls in the last election.

The main concern is how to get people to take the time to register and then to go to the voting booths on election day. This year's drive probably will be more intensive than any that has been made in previous years. This may have a decisive effect on the election results. The Democrats are training their organizers to get out the vote and the Republicans are beginning to do the same thing. It will be a campaign in which everything could depend on whether the stay-at-home citizens go to the polls.

American Party Apathy

LOUISVILLE, KY. — "Nixon? Why Nixon put Humphrey's program into action, and if he gets in this time he'll put McGovern's program in. There's just no hope in the two major parties."

This is Frank Gaydosch, 63, of Uniondale, Pa., a retired food-store executive who heads the 42-member Pennsylvania delegation to the American Party Convention here.

Gaydosch is a former Republican, as are most of the Northern and Western delegates. The Southern delegates, who rattled the rafters of Freedom Hall here in praise of Lester Maddox's oratory, are mostly ex-Democrats. Both united in disdain of the two major parties.

Instead of coalescing into a strong third force, this convention became, instead a headless horseman, wandering through the meadows in search of the spirit of its founder, leader and benefactor, George Corley Wallace.

The Alabama governor's entreaties of poor health touched the emotions of his followers, but also deepened their despair. "Wait 'til '76," most of them said, sounding like members of a last-place ball club saying, "Wait'll next year" in July.

Wallace himself seems to be aiming at political re-entry through the Democratic party rather than through any third-party route, but his disciples here seem determined to follow him anywhere. That is why the 52-year-old invalid should not be counted out of any calculation of the future of American politics.

Imagine if Richard Nixon or George McGovern were somehow incapacitated. Their parties would deliver up a similar leader with dispatch and a minimum of grief. The delegates in Miami Beach — last month's Democrats and this month's Republicans — are mostly ideological technicians, bloodlessly believing in amnesty or peace or war or the oil depletion allowance.

But when American Party Chairman T. Coleman Andrews told the delegates of his hospital meeting with Wallace and "the moving experience of seeing a great man who stared death in the face," there were few dry eyes in the house. In a deep Virginia baritone Andrews intoned that "the man who pulled that trigger on that fateful day in May did indeed change the course of history," and the Louisville Colonels basketball arena seemed as hushed and solemn as a cathedral.

Wallace drew the enthusiasm of more than three million Democratic voters this year and on a third-party ballot might well have exceeded the 9.5 million he received in 1968. His pungent rhetoric would undoubtedly be more attractive to the millions who don't like McGovern and distrust Nixon. The delegates here were drifting at their convention, some to peculiar ideological inlets. "I think what this country needs is one hundred copper pennies for one silver dollar," said Mrs. Elva-May Brooks of Portland, Ore. International finance was never one of Wallace's strong points, but this convention urged a return to the gold standard.

Tom Turnipseed of South Carolina, Wallace's former campaign manager, finally was booed by the delegates when his draft-Wallace activities became linked in the delegates' eyes to his association with Harry Dent, honcho of President Nixon's Southern strategy.

George McGovern, who so often boasted that his and Wallace's appeal were alike, sent no observers to Louisville.

Both parties would like to see Wallace's legions drift and disappear. They may do just that, and with no credit to the parties themselves, but the bullets "that fateful day in May."

Bruce Bissat Says

Singlemindedness—A Flaw

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Having picked Sargent Shriver for his new running mate, Sen. George McGovern turns with relief to the direct business of campaigning. Yet, what follows may prove no more comforting to him than did the Eagleton affair and other early summer happenings.

First off, a political candidacy is like a political party: nothing that happens to it can be wholly wiped away and forgotten. There is an unbreakable continuity. Everything McGovern does from here on will be seen and judged against the backdrop of the "mess" he waded into after winning nomination in early July.

Secondly, there is another kind of continuity. He has a new vice-presidential nominee, but it's the same McGovern and the same staff. And a key question will be whether, in the three months from now until election day, they behave in the same disjointed way they did in July — and even June.

Admittedly, the dumping of Thomas Eagleton was a traumatic and time-consuming thing for McGovern and his aides. Nevertheless, it may be a confession of serious limitation to say of that trying period, as one aide did, that "everything just came to a halt."

It has a familiar ring. Only a short time ago, the McGovern people were saying about the same thing to explain why they had no time to weigh vice-presidential prospects more carefully in Miami Beach. Then, the plea was that they had been totally distracted by the anti-McGovern challenge to the senator's California delegates.

Before Miami Beach, McGovern's men were saying they got caught short on the California challenge in the June Credentials Committee hearings because they had been concentrating on the June 20 New York primary and other delegate-chasing field endeavors.

The disconcerting continuity suggested by these developments is confessed inability to handle more than one big problem at a time. Singlemindedness can be useful — and necessary. It can also be crippling.

Election campaigns are inevitably multifaceted affairs. They afford no comfort to any candidate who imagines he can win the presidency by traveling a single great route, like mounting a massive registration drive or dazzling the voters with superb media effort.

Nobody should have to stress again the common judgement that a fall campaigner needs everybody he can get — not just the dedicated ideologues and the limited support he used to win the nomination.

You become nominee by beating your party rivals. You need to embrace most of them to gain the presidency.

McGovern and some of his top advisers know this. So far, however, they are having difficulty practicing the many sided politics of accommodation. The rejections he got from Hubert Humphrey, Edmund Muskie and others before choosing Shriver underscore his trouble.

Some of McGovern's young ideologues don't seem to understand. They talk as if a few springtime bursts from their rocket engines should take their man all the way to the moon. They talk as if it were unfair, or maybe some flaw in the system, to demand of McGovern and his managers that they choose a vice-president carefully and plan and execute a complex fall campaign with broad-ranging intelligence.

To get anywhere this fall, the McGovern people will have to shake off their precinct caucus mentality and take on the whole world at once.

Highland Training School . . . For Special Children

By TIM SCHUSTER

HIGHLAND A special group of children gathers every weekday for a six-week period this summer at Highland Training School. It is the only summer facility of its kind in New York State, according to Andrew Gauzza.

The Dutchess County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities acquired the use of some buildings, an outside area, and the training school pool for the summer from the state to conduct its fourth annual summer camp for children from five to 17 with neurological impairment.

Director Gauzza, who is ebullient and enthusiastic over some marked success of the program, is also a year-round worker with similar children.

In speaking with The Freeman recently he pointed out that both the State Department of Youth and Mental Hygiene and the Dutchess County Youth Board (a sponsoring organization) had just visited the camp and had praise both for its objectives and its method of operation.

What does "learning disabilities" mean?

Gauzza explained that there are five basic areas dealt with in the program. They are: auditory perception; visual perception; motor coordination; language arts, arts and crafts.

The problems are largely due to brain injuries, Gauzza noted that the IQs range from 75 upward, and many of the children are very bright. But they cannot function adequately in society.

Explaining the remediation further he gave an example visual perception problems. The eyes function properly and vision is fine until it comes time to coordinate the impulses. Such a child can walk into a room and not be able to interpret the symbols he is receiving and may even become panicky.

Therapy can usually rectify these problems to some extent, and Gauzza said that almost all of the children who receive sufficient guidance can get along in "normal" society.

A complicating factor, though, is that when youngsters suffer from the neurological impairment and cannot function as do their peers, many become emotionally disturbed and frustrated because of their constant rejection. If the child does not receive the proper help when young, it may be too late to help when he reaches his teens.

The youngsters we saw at the school appeared to be having a good time. "They don't know they are in school," said Gauzza, adding that the program is structured to make learning fun.

There is one counselor for each child, giving them the individual attention they cannot receive in the BOCES program throughout the school year.

The program is unique in the area, he said, because it provides the summer camp plus help every Saturday in the school year. Both Ulster and Orange Counties have a program, but none as extensive.

"It is my hope," said Gauzza, "that eventually these counties may band together to form a mid-Hudson association which would have more impact and be able to serve more children."

Happily, the Association has had little difficulty in finding volunteers for the summer program. Many counselors have returned for a third year, and some had to be turned away.

Also, 18 members of the Association's professional staff work with the children. The average weekly number of children is about 40, with 49 different children this summer at the camp.

Some youngsters are referred by schools, some by professional people, and many by word of mouth. Gauzza said that parents sharing common problems often become close.

It was this common problem that began the Association. Parents who had no place to find help for their children were a moving force in setting up the organization.

Funding for the non-profit private Association is derived about 33 per cent from the Dutchess County Youth Board; about 50 per cent from private donations; and the remainder through a low tuition.

Saying that there is still not enough help for these children through local, county, or state organizations Gauzza pointed to the Wappingers school district as innovative in that it does not totally segregate the children, but works in a combination of private work and regular classroom time in accordance with each child's needs.

As we drove away from the Highland camp we were aware of the older children planning for a camping out trip scheduled for that night with counselors. It was, explained Gauzza, a step toward functioning in the real world that they have been partially denied for so long.

Rondout Board Issued Order

KYSERIKE any rental contract from being completed. Gordon M. Ambach, Acting Commissioner of Education, has issued a stay order barring the Rondout Valley Board of Education from entering into a contract for the lease-purchase of a computer from Burroughs Corp.

The Board of Education approved the lease-purchasing of the accounting machine at a meeting June 20. Board members Morris Felsen and Eleanor Black, however, contested the contract because voter approval for the contract had not been obtained.

Following the original stay order, the Board of Education advertised for bids for the rental (rather than lease-purchase) of the same equipment. Again, on the petition of Felsen and Mrs. Black, the Commissioner of Education issued a stay order preventing the advertisement of bids for the computer, read, in part: "Such action, even though not specifically barred by that stay order of July 19, clearly violates the intent of that order . . . (the Board of Education) is hereby stayed from entering into any contracts or making any arrangements in any way for the rental, use, purchase or lease . . . for computers or other related equipment pending a final determination of this appeal."

It is believed that the "lease-purchase" of any equipment by a school board is illegal. Once the Commissioner of Education makes a final determination in the matter, the Board of Education will be entitled to rent or purchase such equipment, or to enter into a contract with BOCES to use its equipment for accounting purposes.

Stone Ridge Fair Aid to Library

STONE RIDGE A total of $3,500 was raised for the benefit of the Stone Ridge Library at the recent 36th annual library fair.

Proceeds will be used to help meet operating expenses of the library for the coming year. Library trustees and fair committee, Arthur Woodcock, Mrs. William Paetow and Mrs. Horace Sarr, expressed appreciation to the community for its support of the major fund-raising venture.

In other library news it was noted that a large number of children have attended the summer children's story hour. Mrs. John Cross was coordinator with the Mmes. Wayne Kelder, Fritz Fiedler, Ed Landsman, Robert Parmelee and O. E. Keogan as volunteer readers.

The library has been supplying some of the books and films used in the migrant worker school program being held in the Middle School and Christ the King Church.

Plans are being made for the Library Champagne Ball to be held November 4 at Ski-Minne Lodge. William Daron will serve as chairman again this year.

Tickets will be available soon.

Bus Service 'Rumors' Causing Great Concern

TOWN OF ROSENDALE service would cause a great hardship on many Rosendale residents. Defelicio told The Freeman today that many residents living in Rosendale and working in Kingston have no other means of transportation.

The town board is going to petition Adirondack Trailways to have the service remain in fact, the rumors are true, the supervisor said.

According to John McGarry, director of transportation for Adirondack Trailways, the company is working on its fall schedules at present and there is a strong possibility that the 7 a.m. Rosendale service may be ended.

McGarry, who was contacted by The Freeman today said lack of usage is the reason for the possible termination of service. He said the number of people using the morning bus from Rosendale to Kingston does not pay for the service.

McGarry did not have figures immediately available on the number of people who have used the bus.

In other action, residents of the Fourth Binnewater Road area at the meeting complained of alleged damage to the road by another resident of the area.

According to town supervisor Gerard Defelicio, material which was used to patch holes in the road has been removed by an individual who he declined to name.

Defelicio told The Freeman today that the area residents are going to sign a complaint against the individual. Highway department personnel who have allegedly been harassed by the person while working in the area are also going to sign the complaint, the supervisor added.

It was also noted at the meeting that local arrangements have been made for the senior citizens picnic to be held Wednesday, Aug. 23, at the Town of Rosendale community building in Maple Hill. According to Defelicio, approximately 100 senior citizens attended the event last year and a similar turnout is expected.

A Costly N.Y.C. Error On Welfare Recipients

ALBANY, N.Y. UPI — An alleged failure by New York City to refer 7,700 employable welfare recipients to the employment service will cost the city $470,663.

State officials announced recently they were deducting that amount from the June payment for the federal and state share of welfare funds to the city because of the alleged failure to refer welfare recipients.

The state law requires that those able to work report for either a job or training and pick up their welfare checks at the employment service.

State Social Services Commissioner Abe Lavine said that the 7,700 represented the difference between the 28,272 referrals made by the city in June and the 36,000 considered "as a satisfactory number under the requirement of the welfare reform program."

Lavine said the city's failure to refer more employable recipients "threatened both the legislative intent and the effectiveness of the program."

Lavine urged City Human Resources Administrator Jule M. Sugarman "take all possible steps to expand immediate referrals of relief recipients."

He said New York City's own figures estimate that there are 35,000 employable home relief recipients while only 19,239 are being referred.

"While the New York City department has made some progress in implementing this program, it has failed to refer anywhere near the number of persons that it estimates to be covered by the program," Lavine said.

Connolly Man's Death Ruled Accidental

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser has given a verdict of accidental death due to submersion from drowning in the case of Charles Belding, 63, of Connolly, whose body was recovered from the Rondout Creek at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

State Police who investigated with officers from the sheriff's office, said Belding was the caretaker for the A.P. Wilkstrom Company in Connolly. He apparently was trying to move a pontoon barge when he tripped or slipped and fell into the creek. It was said he could not swim.

Coroner Keyser said an autopsy disclosed no evidence the man suffered a heart attack and no foul play was involved. Belding was last seen alive at 4:45 p.m. Tuesday.

State Police from Highland searched the creek Tuesday night after Belding was reported missing. Grappling efforts Wednesday morning by state police resulted in recovery of the body.

Police Check Area Mishaps

TOWN OF KINGSTON Several persons were injured in area traffic accidents Wednesday and early today, according to Hurley State Police.

Troopers also reported the arrest of Fred Longenecker, 21, of Littleton, Pa., on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident that occurred at 8:30 p.m. on Hallihan Hill Road, this township.

A report of Troopers R. M. Houst and Paul D. Aery noted that Longenecker was traveling along the highway when he lost control of the car, veered off the pavement and knocked down two utility poles, reportedly taking out 1,600 feet of cablevision wire.

The driver of the vehicle left the scene, troopers said. He was arrested Wednesday and arraigned before Town Justice Robert E. Ferrigan. On a plea of guilty to leaving the scene of an accident, Longenecker was fined $25.

Troopers Houst and Aery also investigated an accident on Lucas Avenue Extension that occurred at 6:30 a.m. today. They reported a car driven by Karen Osterhout, 30, of High Falls, left the road and hit a pole. She was treated at Benedictine Hospital for lacerations of the forehead.

State and Woodstock police investigated a car-pedestrian accident that occurred on Route 212 Wednesday. Police said Yehuda Ben-Yehuda, 29, of Woodstock reportedly walked between two parked cars and was hit by a car operated by Erna Sheppa, 60, of Woodstock. He sustained bruises and possible back injuries. Ben-Yehuda was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fa-tum's Ambulance Service.

Victoria Roeder, 12, of Hurley, sustained bruises and abrasions Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. when her bicycle was involved in an accident with a car driven by Lauren Boucher of Hurley, troopers reported. The girl was treated at Kingston Hospital. Trooper R. O. Reiserberg investigated.

Another accident investigated by troopers occurred on Route 212 in Saugerties. Police said a motorcycle operated by Mark Silinovich of Saugerties reportedly hit a pedestrian, Theodore Haines, 45, of Malden, who sustained undetermined injuries.

Spada Endorses Gilman

KINGSTON John Kline of Plattekill and Gilman of Middletown to represent that portion of southern Ulster County included in the new 26th Congressional District. Said Chairman Spada: "We will serve in Congress, but also by the entire Ulster County Republican Committee."

Letters Are Urged On Sharing Bill

ALBANY counties, cities, towns and villages through the resultant delays of House-Senate Conference Committees. "New York State and its local wire or telegraph United States Senators Jacob Javits and James L. Buckley in Washington urging their support in adopting a Federal Revenue Sharing bill similar to the bill which has already passed the House of Representatives. Gilman, a candidate for Congress in Ulster's new 26th Congressional District, said: "Should the Senate pass a measure which is different from the already passed House measure, the results could have an adverse effect upon the economy of New York State, its Rockland County Citizens wholehearted support of Assemblyman Gilman by not only the Republican Committee of the three Ulster townships which Assemblyman Gilman will serve in Congress, but also by the entire Ulster County Republican Committee." The Republican County Chairman continued: "We have closely observed Assemblyman Gilman's creditable record in Albany while serving our neighboring Orange County and his clear, responsive grasp of the problems confronting citizens in both of our counties." In issuing his joint statement, Chairman Spada said: "The combined support we are giving Assemblyman Gilman reflects the unity of purpose and belief we all hold in our candidate's desire to provide a 'better tomorrow' for the entire 26th Congressional District based upon his proven record of responsive representation, his integrity and honesty in government and his more than 18 years of public service. Town GOP Chairmen Scott, Collins and Kline join with me in encouraging all residents of southern Ulster County to elect Ben Gilman as our 26th District representative in Congress."

INTERNS — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. has three young people working in his Washington office this summer as part of his annual Congressional Intern Program, including David R. Hodas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hodas of Poughkeepsie, who will be a senior at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., where he is majoring in physics; Barbara Sparacio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sparacio, Highland, attending the State University College at New Paltz, where she is majoring in political science; and Michelle Ritz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis U. Ritz of Poughkeepsie, who will be entering her third year at Wheaton College, Boston, Mass., where she is majoring in political science.

Burns Blames Nixon For Spiraling Costs

CARMEL food sector is intolerable. Each week, the controlled wage earner's paycheck can purchase less food than it did before. "It is too late now to freeze food prices. The damage has already been done. A food price freeze while inflation is this rampant could be expected to create a black market. If food prices are frozen now, and a black market develops, there might not be enough food for middle and low income persons unless rationing were also imposed." Burns suggested that the proper solution to inflation caused by inadequate supply of food is to increase the supply of food. "The only practical alternative to a price freeze and rationing," he maintained, "is for the government itself to import farm products for a limited period of time and to take steps now to cause an increase in American farm production next year. The Nixon Administration is responsible for this crisis, and it has delayed too long in assuming the responsibility for its resolution."

Security for Nixon Concerns Pat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time, Pat Nixon has expressed concern about security arrangements to protect President Nixon.

The subject came up at a news conference Mrs. Nixon held in the White House. She was asked about reports that Arthur H. Bremer, the man who shot George C. Wallace, stalked Nixon in Ottawa, Canada, earlier this year.

"I think the Secret Service have been terribly worried about it and feel certain precautions should be taken," Mrs. Nixon said. She added that "we have to mind" the Secret Service.

Like most of his predecessors, Nixon at times has ignored Secret Service recommendations and waded into street crowds when he is campaigning. Before Tuesday, Mrs. Nixon had always insisted she was never concerned about security arrangements.

On other subjects, Mrs. Nixon: —Said she did not think there was a chance Nixon would be defeated in November. She said there would not be many issues in the campaign "because there are not many issues that have not been solved." However, Mrs. Nixon also warned against overconfidence.

—Took a swipe at Jane Fonda, who recently visited Hanoi, saying the actress should have asked the North Vietnamese "to stop their aggression."

—Declared she was "really not for abortion...I mean abortion on demand—whole sale." She said she believed abortion was "a personal thing."

—Denied that the President had ever undergone psychotherapy. "He's never had any psychological problems," she said. "He's never lost a day for health reasons."

—Said she hoped Nixon would name women to the cabinet and Supreme Court if he is re-elected.

—Revealed she planned to campaign herself in all 50 states.

INMATES PLAY CHESS — Four United States Chess masters, members of the Manhattan Chess Club, recently visited the Eastern New York Correctional Facility at Napanoch and engaged in chess matches with 14 inmate players. Photo shows the group at play. The game was played simultaneously, the four professionals interchanging in playing all at one time. Considering the high calibre of the competition the Napanoch men reportedly did surprisingly well, several playing strongly and lasting long before going down to defeat. One man was so chagrined at losing he pleaded for a return match. Visiting players included Stephen Brandwein, Burrill Crohn, Frances Goldfarb and Michael Senkiewicz. Miss Goldfarb, manager of the Manhattan Club, is the 9th ranked woman chess player in the country. Sankiewicz was on the student team that won the world championship in Israel in 1970. Angelo Syracuse, director of education, arranged the event, and Robert Frucht, teacher, captained the Napanoch team. (Photo by A. E. Brockbank, institution photographer)

Antibusing Bills... House Vote Aug. 17

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A after the House acts on the two House vote is expected Aug. 17 on two antibusing measures backed by the administration but bitterly opposed by civil rights groups.

The House Rules Committee is expected to act Thursday and clear the two measures for a floor vote and Chairman William O. Colmer, D-Miss., said Speaker Carl Albert promised him the bills would be called up Aug. 17.

The House Education and Labor Committee approved President Nixon's so-called "guidelines" measure Tuesday and sent it to the Rules Committee which is expected to act on its own and pull out of the Judiciary Committee the second Nixon bill, which would set a moratorium on any new court ordered busing until next July 1.

The Rules Committee voted last week to take a proposed constitutional amendment that would ban racial busing out of the Judiciary and send it to the floor, but Colmer said he would not call up the amendment until Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., and Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., chief sponsors of the Administration measure, said it "does not prevent busing. All this does is set reasonable and sensible standards for the courts to follow in ordering busing."

The bill would also earmark $500 million a year for two years to improve so-called "inferior" schools. The money would come out of the $1 billion a year already authorized in law to help schools pay the costs of desegregation.

The committee killed, on a 19-16 vote, a provision in the Nixon measure that would allow reopening of school desegregation orders, no matter how old or whether they involve busing, to determine if they comply with the guideline provisions. It was expected, however, there will be sufficient votes to restore the provision on the House floor.

Plan to Bomb N. Y.... WW 2 Mission Is Bared

TOKYO (AP) — Tamotsu Suizaki, a 22-year-old flight instructor in the Imperial Japanese Army, was a wireless operator at an air base north of Tokyo at the time he was ordered to report to the United States, when he learned about his assignment: mission.

It was Aug. 9, 1945 — 27 years ago today — and Japan's military leaders realized they were fast losing World War II. Three long-range Ki77s, twin-engine bombers developed for the second devastated Nagasaki on Aug. 9.

Japan surrendered on Aug. 14. But, meanwhile, its leaders and a wireless operator-navigator cast desperately for ways to turn the tide of defeat. Takahashi's mission — a one-way

Five years earlier, a Ki77 and a crew of eight flew 10,200 miles non-stop on a circular route over Manchuria. This exceeded the 6,750 miles to New York, but allowance was being made for the heavy bomb load.

Second Duty Tour

Tillson Woman Home From Vietnam

TILLSON Staff Sergeant (SSG) Gabrielle Brancato, Women's Army Corps, is now home in Tillson, enjoying a month's leave after her second tour of duty in Vietnam.

Her next duty station will be Fort Sam Houston, in San Antonio, Tex., where she will be gin a second career in the Army. She has spent 11 years as an administration specialist. She now wants to go into the Medical Corps. She entered the Army on July 24, 1961, and has served since that time in administrative, with duty stations at Fort Holabird, Md.; Frankfurt, Germany; Walter Reed Army Hospital; the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland; and Vietnam.

SSG Brancato volunteered for both her tours of duty in Vietnam. Her first tour, in 1968-69, she did her familiar administrative specialties. It was her most recent tour which changed her mind about what she really wanted to do in the service.

During this most recent tour, SSG Brancato was assigned to the 24th Evac Hospital at Long Binh, processing admissions to the hospital's emergency room. She found the work, and the mission of the Medical Corps, fascinating.

She told The Freeman she even spent her days off in the hospital, observing operations.

Now she is bound for Fort Sam Houston, to take the basic medical course, with the aim of eventually becoming an operating room technician, assisting surgeons during operations.

While she was in Vietnam, her sister, Mrs. Vincent Brancato, with whom she is now staying, sent her The Daily Freeman every day, including the Sunday edition.

"Except for the letters I got from home," she said, "it was as close as I could get to home. It was the best enjoyment and relaxation I had."

She said she even cut out last winter's snow pictures, to help her keep cool in the Vietnam heat.

Having gone into the Army for the travel and educational opportunities, she said she would like to see more women in the army. She believed many of the jobs in the service now held down by men could be done by women, and she said the Army was now opening up new jobs or women.

Planning to stay in the service another nine years until her retirement, she said it was "too far in the future" to plan what she would be doing after that.

SSG Brancato has only been home from Vietnam for about two weeks. To help her get in the swing of things, she was given a surprise homecoming party at the home of Raoul and Guy DiBlasi, 38 Tammany Street, Kingston, last Saturday.

Woodstock Area News

Onteora Lions Slate Drive

WOODSTOCK Onteora Lions Club has announced that they will conduct their next paper drive on Saturday and Sunday Aug. 12-13, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at Bradley Meadows Shipping Center, Woodstock.

Lions President, Harry Castiglione, said it would be a drive for paper only since they had had some difficulties with glass and aluminum and have chosen to suspend that form of recycling.

Roy Hoffman, Lions Club co-chairman for the Bavarian

Festival being sponsored jointly by Onteora Lions and Woodstock Rotary on Aug. 19 and 20 has reminded that tickets for the festival as well as benefit tickets will be available from any Lion at the paper drive.

Onteora Lions, one of the first groups in Ulster County to work with recycling paper on a regular basis, has decided to see that this program be continued. Each time a drive is held many new people participate and the regular participants are even more devoted to making recycling work in the community.

Art Students Plan Forum

In announcing the fourth in the current series of Friday forums, The Art Students League invites artists, art students and the general public to hear the artist and professor William Wilson at the Forum of Friday, Aug. 11, from 12:30 to 1:30 on the League grounds. The Forum encourages open discussion and is moderated by the artist and League instructor Franklin Alexander.

Wilson is a graduate of William and Mary College and received his M.F.A. in Painting from Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. He studied with George Grosz and Reginald Marsh at the Art Students League. From 1933 to 1956 he traveled — sailing, working and painting in the South Pacific.

Following a grant under the Foreign Area Studies Program of the State Education Department, in Asian Art, in 1965, and a seminar in Chinese Painting at the School of Fine Arts of New York University in the summer of 1965, he received a grant for painting from the State University of New York Research Foundation in 1966. He is included in the following publications: Prize-Winning Painting, Volume 2, 1961; Wood Design by Donald Wilcox, Watson-Guptill, 1968 and Modern Leather Design by the same author and publisher. Since 1959 he has had twelve one-man shows. He has participated in and won prizes in all of the important regional shows in this area. Since 1959 William Wilson has been a Professor at the State University of New York at Albany.

The Art Students League is located on Route 212, one mile from the village of Woodstock. Summer classes are now in session and will continue through August 25th. The League's gallery, now showing student work, is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., weekdays.

Ulster Fair Opens Friday...Weather Notwithstanding

By CARL GRAHAM

NEW PALTZ
Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, and Georgiana Ellen Dacre, Miss Ulster County of 1972, will cut a ribbon at 11 a.m. Friday to officially open the current edition of the Ulster County Fair, for a three-day run.

The fair is open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, although the horse shows will begin at 7 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Douglas Bartow, the fair manager, declined to make any estimate of attendance. "The weather is a major factor," he said. "If we get a break in the weather we'll do real well."

Bartow also declined to comment on a greased pig chasing contest, but an item called "Greased Pig Chasing Contest" is on the program for 3 p.m. Friday, 2:30 Saturday, and 3:30 Sunday.

Opening day activities include dairy, beef and sheep judging, ornamental horticultural judging, and a full program of 4-H Club events, including a Dress Revue at 7 p.m. A dog drill team is offering an exhibition Friday and again on Saturday.

A dog exhibition, featuring about 45 different breeds, will be put on by the Ulster County Kennel Club Friday night. A tractor driving contest will be a Saturday feature. The 4-H program Sunday will feature the awards presentation on stage at 5 p.m.

Continuing features include, in addition to the full program of 4-H Club events, a children's zoo, a trout fishing pool, and what Bartow called "one of the best Grange exhibits in the area, far superior to the one they had in Orange County."

Admission is free to the children's zoo, which contains about 50 varieties of animals and birds. Children will be able to pet many of the animals. There will be a fee for camel, elephant, and pony rides.

The trout fishing pool, maintained by the Black River Trout Hatchery, will have a 14 by 50 foot pool with 500 trout, and a special trout worth $100 to the lucky person who catches him.

The fair represents the cooperative efforts of numerous organizations in the county, including the Extension Service. The New Paltz Art Association conducts an art show, the New Paltz Senior Girl Scouts sell tickets for rides, and the Ulster County Horsemen's Council will conduct a gymkhana and open class horse show on Sunday.

The Red Cross maintains a first aid station, manned by volunteers, during the entire fair and Fatum's Ambulance of Kingston has a vehicle and crew on the grounds to handle emergency runs.

The Ulster County Sheriff's Department handles security arrangements and New Paltz Explorer Scouts park cars.

Bartow said that parking fees are the major source of revenue for the fair. Admission to the fair grounds is free.

"We have plenty of parking for everyone," he said.

The fair is held at the County Home on Libertyville Road. Motorists coming to New Paltz take Route 299 west across the Wallkill River. Signs will be posted to guide them to the grounds.

The current fair is the fifth to be held at the present location. It was held previously at Forsyth Park in Kingston and in Ellenville.

'Member of the Wedding' Slated

THE MEMBER OF THE WEDDING, Carson McCullers' famous play, will be performed in the round as the sixth production of the 1972 season of Summer Theatre presented by Lexington for the Performing Arts, Lexington, N.Y. The play will run Friday, Aug. 11th and Saturday, Aug. 12th at 8:30 p.m. THE MEMBER OF THE WEDDING was first produced on the Broadway stage in 1950, with Julie Harris as Frankie, Ethel Waters as Berenice and Brandon de Wilde as John Henry. The play became an instant success and is as popular today as when it first appeared. Young Frankie Adams wishes to be a "member" of her brother Jarvis' approaching wedding. She schemes and plots to do so with the family cook, Berenice, and her very young cousin, John Henry — with fun and chaos for all. The LPA production features Didi Goldenhar as Frankie, Sandra McCormack as Berenice, and Marc Diamond as John Henry. The play has been directed by the managing director of LPA, Katharine Rosati, of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City. Wade Giampa designed the set and costumes were designed by Jean Elliott and Ellen Henebry. Jonathan Larson was responsible for lighting. The LP Playhouse is now in its fourth season of production of outstanding plays and musical comedies drawn from the Broadway and Off-Broadway theater. The 1972 season will also include such other notable works as LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE and two original plays, COLORS and ELECTRA by Walter Talley.

Wife Finds Out Husband Is Engaged

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a Navy man for three years. We have a darling baby. I thought we had a good marriage until last week when I flew home to see my parents in West Virginia. I sat next to a pretty blonde girl on the plane and we started talking. She told me her fiancé was on "The Ship," and she named the ship. That was the ship my husband was on. Then she showed me his picture and I nearly fainted. Her "fiancee" was MY husband! I couldn't contain my amazement, so I told her. Then it was her turn to nearly faint. The poor kid started to shake and cry and I had to calm her down. We spent the rest of the flight comparing notes. Abby, my husband was such a clever liar. He had this girl friend for over a year and I never suspected a thing. The girl said she would never see my husband again and I believe her. I'm not sure how to handle this. I still love him, and there's the baby to consider. What should I do I don't think I could ever trust him again.

HURT IN SEATTLE DEAR HURT: Tell him you know about the "fiancee" and ask him if he's ready to settle down and be a proper husband and father. One swallow doesn't make a summer, and one escapade doesn't ruin a marriage forever. Give him another chance, and don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that it is considered bad manners to tip the owner of the shop even if she has done your hair, so I never do. But how about when you aren't sure if the hairdresser is a manager or if she is in on the profits? I once asked, "Do you accept tips," and the girl turned red and sputtered around and I didn't know what to do. Another time, when I tried to tip a hairdresser (a man) and he raised his eyebrows and arrogantly said, "Puhleeze. I own this shop!"

I never know what to do. Help

IN DOUBT DEAR IN: When in doubt, offer a tip. For every "puhleeze," you'll get 100 "thank you's."

DEAR ABBY: We are three couples who enjoy going out for dinner together. When we go to a restaurant, we always divide the check into thirds and it has always worked out fine.

Lately, however, this one couple seems to go overboard, fancy desserts, and more expensive dinners than the rest of us. We like this couple a lot and don't want to lose their friendship over this; but we don't like the extra expense.

Any suggestions? X, Y AND Z DEAR X Y AND Z: When you order, ask for separate checks. Your friendship will last longer if you eliminate the cause of resentment.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SWINGER IN LOUISVILLE": Tell your husband that you are no swinger and you didn't marry him to play musical beds. If he thinks "swinging" with a variety of different partners can "save" a marriage, he's mistaken. I can't think of anything that could kill it quicker.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069 and enclose a stamped addressed envelope. (Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:25 a.m. WKY-1490)

Any interested parents are invited to come to the school, located on Mill Road, on two Saturdays, Aug. 12 and Aug. 19, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and meet the director and teachers who will answer any questions on the school's operation and philosophy.

For detailed information contact Dean Stockwell in Olivebridge.

learn, through her sister, that she has asked the best friend of her late father to give her away.

My husband is understandably hurt, since he felt if she had a church wedding he would be asked to give her away, as he is her only immediate male relative. It seems her father's friend helped her secure admission to a school in her chosen field and she feels obligated to him.

We would have to make plans well in advance to go out of town to this wedding and arrange to have someone run our business. In view of her attitude I do not feel we should go to the trouble to attend. I would very much like to have your opinion.

Mrs. George Willis

Dear Mrs. Willis: The mere fact of being an uncle does not entitle a man to give his niece away. Many uncles have little or no contact with their brother's or sister's offspring, and there would be no reason that they, instead of someone who might have far more than "blood" ties with the bride, should be the escort.

You do not state what relationship existed between your husband and his niece. If they were at all close, he should have been chosen — as the nearest male relative. But if they were no more than distant acquaintances, the bride had every right to choose someone who had taken more of a part in her life.

You will accomplish nothing by staying away from the wedding.

Dear Mrs. Post: When a couple moves to a new area far removed from friends (like from Chicago to Florida), it is not incumbent upon those leaving to call their friends to say "good-bye" rather than expecting them to do so.

Mrs. Griffin

Dear Mrs. Griffin: Yes, friends and acquaintances often do not remember the date of one's departure and may, quite innocently, forget to call until it is too late. The "moving" is a far more important event to the ones leaving, so it is up to them to 'phone their "good-byes."

"So You're Planning to Give a Shower!" This booklet tells you everything you need to know for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister or anyone else. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Freeman. (© 1972 Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

Maverick Concerts Presents Team

The widely acclaimed team of Lugovoy-Libove will be the featured artists at Maverick Hall Sunday, Aug. 13, 1972, at 3 p.m. They will be assisted this time by guest artists, Paul Gershman, LaMar Alsop and Charles McCracken.

Charles Libove and Nina Lugovoy, who is Mrs. Libove, fell in love with Woodstock at the time of Maverick's 50th anniversary with their exploration of the trio literature with the Philharmonia Trio. They are now residents of the hamlet of Shady.

Charles Libove possesses a seemingly effortless technique. His tone is both refined and bright, and he can make his instrument sing beautifully. Mr. Libove owns a Stradivarius violin. Miss Lugovoy, "the incredible pianist," has brilliant keyboard technique, which she holds delicately in rein whenever the ensemble demands it, never overpowering the stringed instruments. And although Libove also has a big tone, their performance, both for the individual musicians and for all the fine points of ensemble, is consistently and exceptionally high.

This Sunday the Duo will start the program with a Sonata by Hindemith, followed by the Quartet in Eb major by Schumann, and the "piece de resistance" will be the Quintet for strings and piano by Cesar Frank. In these two works they will be assisted by three prominent musicians and chamber music specialists: Paul Gershman, violinist of renown and soloist with all the major orchestras,

CHARLES LIBOVE and NINA LUGOVY

teacher at Juilliards in New York; LaMar Alsop, viola, is concert master of the N.Y. City Ballet, member of the Carnegie Quartet, and a veteran of Saratoga Performing Arts and Lincoln Centers; Cellist McCracken is a member of the Marlboro Trio, has been with the Metropolitan Opera, and has been guest artist with the Galimir and Juilliard Quartets.

The Franck Quintet is a lovely work not enough performed and favorite of chamber music lovers. This concert promises, as always, to be a highly satisfying experience for our regular patrons and for aficionados of chamber music who flock to hear the Liboves.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE
WHO SENT THOSE LOVELY FLOWERS?

Dear Heloise:
Just lately I received another bouquet of flowers for a special event.

When the flowers wilted and died, I noticed that the greenery in the vase was still in good condition and still arranged attractively.

The two ribbon bows tied to sticks in the arrangement gave me an idea.

I carefully pulled the flowers out and threw them away.

I tied brightly colored ribbon bows (left over from gifts I'd received) directly to the greenery.

It was really a different bouquet and remained lovely for many more days.

Perhaps you could bring in evergreens or long twigs from the yard to add height and fill in blank places.

IDALYN M. STINSON

I never ever want my flowers to fade away . . . so this neat trick sure helps keep the lovely thought fresh in your mind for days and days.

Bless you for sharing this bit of sunshine with us!

LOVE,
HELOISE

Letter of Thought

Dear Heloise:

This might be more of a suggestion than a hint, but I think it's a wise practice to carefully wash all canned goods tops before opening.

Ever notice the exterminator busily placing little cups behind the supermarket displays?

Lots of bacteria can settle on a can top by the time it reaches the store shelves.

And, if you can, visualize a mouse taking a rest on a can top after his midnight prowling. Someone opens the can at home and the lid sinks a bit into the contents. Ugh . . .

Hope you can see the merits in "can top" washing.

RUTH

Dear Heloise:

Maybe this little hint will help a new bride who is, like me, a little lazy!

While drinking that second cup of coffee in the morning, make a list of what has to be done that day.

As you progress during the day, check off each item as you complete it.

As a reward for getting everything done, take an extra five minutes in that great old tub.

As a penalty, take a short shower.

This system sure works for me because I simply hate taking showers!

Avoiding Some Woes Of Widowhood; Tips

By ALISON GODDARD

WEST CHELMSFORD,

Mass. (MW) — Quite apart

from the emotional upheavals

they experience, most widows

are "woefully unprepared"

for the practical problems

they face. Yet much "uncertainty, confusion and

error" could be avoided if they and their husbands had earlier confronted the possibility of personal loss and planned for it accordingly.

This is the view of Alfred E.

Wilson, co-author and

publisher of a book, which candidly asks husbands: "If

You Should Die — Can Your

Wife Take Over — Can Your Wife Take Over?"

If the answer is "no," Mr.

Wilson warns, then funeral arrangements can be hap-

azard and overly expensive.

Life insurance benefits mis-

spent, cash frequently lacking,

investments mismanaged and estate taxes often excessive.

Yet most of these problems can be avoided, says Mr.

Wilson, who along with

Barlett W. Paulding Jr., has written the 90-page

publication designed to help

a man put his affairs in order.

This combination textbook and workbook can enable him to evaluate his life insurance,

calculate his Social Security, analyze the family's financial needs, prepare a will,

determine the net worth of his estate and estimate its taxes. By using it as a workbook, a man can record in one specific place the factual

information his survivors will need. And he's also encouraged to make a complete record of where he keeps his various documents and papers

so they can be easily located,

if necessary.

The authors recognize that the wife — on her own —

may encounter various home

maintenance problems, but

state that "she can avoid being totally dependent on how various utilities work."

They therefore include comprehensive checklists for the operation of such home

utilities as the heating, hot water, electric, plumbing and air conditioning systems.

There's even a place for the husband to indicate "how to shut off the main water supply, should the need arise." Since repairmen are not entirely expendable, space is also provided to list their names, addresses and phone numbers.

Wilson and Paulding believe in facing — rather than

evading — certain inevitable

facts of life. They state flatly that the best time for a husband and wife to think about funeral arrangements is the present, since "they can then be emotionally relaxed

and objective about the details."

When it comes to income taxes, the authors recommend that the husband — who usually handles such matters

— file all previous tax

records, cancelled checks, income statements, etc. in one location. And they suggest that the wife complete the next tax return under his guidance "so she will not only gain valuable experience, but

be able to decide if she wants to take care of it herself later,

or hire someone else to do it."

"If You Should Die — Can

Your Wife Take Over" is available from the Stoney

Brook Publishing Company,

186 Main Street, West

Chelmsford, Mass. 01863.

Copies are $2.95 each postpaid.

Tigers, Yankees Battle To Mexican Standoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Two National League castoffs were the pitching heroes, Wednesday as the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees battled to a Mexican standoff.

Woodie Fryman, who spent two seasons with Pittsburgh and 4½ with Philadelphia, made his first American League start and pitched the Tigers to a 6-0 victory with third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez of Cananea, Mexico, contributing two doubles and a single, driving in three runs and gobbling up seven grounders, several on spectacular stops.

Rob Gardner, who had trials with the New York Mets in 1965 and 1966 and the Chicago Cubs third, one in the fifth and three in 1967, limited the Tigers to two hits and one unearned run in eight innings and third baseman Celerino Sanchez of Mexico City slapped a two-out, two-run single in the seventh as the Yankees took the nightcap 2-1.

The split left Detroit still atop the tight East Division by one-half game over Baltimore, three over New York and four over Boston.

Fryman, who has pitched 17 scoreless innings since being changed last week, pitched the Yankees on six hits and the Tigers jumped on Mel Stottlemyre for two runs in the throw one pitch and my arm could fall off, but I'll keep pitching until it does.

"I don't think I can do as good a job for a club like the Phillies as I can over here. They made all those double plays and good plays behind me today and they ran every-thing down. The runs helped a lot, too."

The Tigers nipped Gardner for an unearned run in the first inning of the nightcap on an error and Bill Freehan's two-out single and Tom Zimmerman checked the Yankees on one hit until the seventh.

But with one out Roy White singled and Ron Blomberg laced a groundrule double. Detroit Manager Billy Martin called on relief ace Fred Scherman and he got pinch hitter Felipe Alou to foul out on the first pitch. But Sanchez then grounded a single to right field and both runners scored.

"I was surprised they didn't walk Alou," said New York Manager Ralph Houk. "I was sure they'd walk him. I thought I'd be making them pitch to Sanchez. They did, but not the way I expected."

Gardner, who has won all four of his starts and has a brilliant 0.60 earned run average as a starting pitcher, kept the Tigers hitless following Freehan's run-scoring hit in the first until Tony Taylor singled with two out in the eighth.

He left after eight innings and super-saver Sparky Lyle picked up his 25th save by hurling the ninth and fanning Ike Brown and Freehan and retiring Willie Horton on a dribbler in front of the plate.

"Isn't that Gardner amazing?" Houk raved. "That's four big wins he's gotten for us. I hated like hell to take him out, but they had those strong right-handed hitters coming up in the ninth and Horton often pulls a pitcher like him. The way Sparky's been going, I couldn't take a chance."

"I still think yesterday's win was the biggest, beating Mickey Lolich. When you lose the first game of a series your club is usually a little more down, but we weren't even down when the second game started today. Two shutouts, though, could have really taken the sap out of us."

Wood Knocks Back

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The California Angels tried to knock on Wood Wednesday night—Wilbur Wood, that is—but Wood turned the tables and delivered a sharp rap of his own.

The portly knuckleballer of the Chicago White Sox out-dueled California's flamethrowing Nolan Ryan 1-0, singled home the only run of the game and threw the race in the American League West into a turmoil.

The White Sox, six games out as recently as a week ago, climbed within one game of the one-time runaway Oakland A's, who lost to Kansas City 5-2.

Elsewhere, Detroit's lead in the AL East was shaved to one-half game over Baltimore when the Tigers split a doubleheader with New York 6-0, 1-2 while the Orioles battered Milwaukee 10-0. The Yankees trail by three games and Boston is four back after beating Cleveland 5-2. Minnesota, six out in the West, lost to Texas 3-2.

Chicago, without a hit against Ryan until the sixth inning, broke through with two out in the seventh. Ed Herrmann singled and Ryan wild pitched him to second. The Angels then decided to walk Luis Alvarado to get to Wood but the left-hander, who bats from the right side a manager .157 clip, lined an opposite-field single inside the right field line.

"I'd say I got around on him real good," Wood laughed. "But I wouldn't trade my knuckle for his fast ball."

The Sox move into Oakland tonight for a four-game weekend series with the A's, who have dropped four in a row and six of their last seven games.

"We're facing them head-to-head," said Manager Dick Williams, "and we'll find out what we're made of. We may stir up some excitement. This was my first long road trip since I became manager of the A's. We haven't played consistently well since the All-Star Game."

Kansas City tagged Oakland's Vida Blue, 4-7, for their first three runs and Cookie Rojas hit a two-run homer off Darold Knowlton in the seventh. Rojas also ignited a two-run rally in the sixth with a double.

Texas scored three unearned runs to nip Minnesota behind the five-hit pitching of rookie Don Stanhouse. Vic Harris, another rookie, stole home for one run and Rich Billings drove in the decisive tally in the eighth inning with a sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall cast his vote for Baltimore in the AL East after the Orioles downed the Brewers for the third time in a row, with Dave McNally pitching a four-hitter and hitting a home run, to boot.

"I don't see how you can stop this club," he said. "I think they've got all the ingredients—speed, defense, youth, talent, pitching and enough power. At least that's how they looked in this series."

McNally triggered a seven-run onslaught against Bill Parsons and Earl Stephenson with a sixth-inning single as the Orioles ran their winning streak to four games.

The Orioles took their cue Wednesday from McNally. "We were all watching you," Boog Powell ribbed the left-hander. "Hell, when you hit a home run and pitch a shutout you don't have to worry about anyone else."

Luis Aparicio's two-run single in the fifth inning following a wild pitch by Cleveland's Gaylord Perry broke a 2-2 tie and prevented the Indians' ace from winning his 19th in his second try at it. Rico Petrocelli homered for the Red Sox' final run in the eighth.

It was a costly victory for the Red Sox, who lost second baseman Doug Griffin for about three weeks when he was hit by a Perry pitch and suffered a hairline fracture of his left hand.

City Won't Buy Garden

By United Press International
The city of New York is studying plans to give tax relief to the New York Knicks and Rangers but buying Madison Square Garden is not one of the proposals under consideration, Mayor John V. Lindsay said Wednesday.

Other city officials had said Tuesday the city was thinking about purchasing the Garden and leasing it back to the Knicks and Rangers to prevent the teams from moving to New Jersey.

But Lindsay said "there is no talk about purchasing Madison Square Garden."

Lindsay said the city officials are studying the idea of a Sports Authority to function as a managing unit for various sports facilities. The mayor said, "the paper work has been done," but a final decision on whether to actually create the authority has not been reached. What the teams want, a Garden spokesman said Tuesday, is to gain the same type of tax position the city has given teams like the Jets, Mets and Yankees. The Garden is reported to be paying $2.1 million a year in tax on the arena.

However, there was some opposition among city officials for any plan to give tax relief to the corporation since both teams are successful.

Economic Development Administrator Ken Patton accused the Knicks' backers and Rangers of trying to force the city to bid for them with offers of subsidies in the form of tax abatement.

Patton said, "I think there's a grave risk that this will lead to federal control over organized sports."

City Council President Sanford D. Garfield criticized the situation by calling it "just another ridiculous Yankee Stadium situation." He added, "I would propose the Garden, which was constructed with $57 million of private funds, receive various benefits from the city including the creation of parking facilities that would generate revenue for the Garden."

Garfield has also proposed the city's plan to pour $24 million into a renovation of Yankee Stadium to keep the Yankees in the Bronx. They had been thinking of joining the Giants in the proposed New Jersey Meadowlands sports complex but decided to stay when the city came forward with its plans to buy Yankee Stadium and then renovate it.

William Jennings, the president of the Rangers, said he didn't want to give the impression that either team is in trouble financially. "I feel a mistaken impression has resulted that the Garden is trying to keep its head above water. The real issue is fair treatment and protecting stockholders. We're doing very well financially and hope to do better."

Owners Meet On Realignment

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was singularly uninformative Wednesday after the first joint meeting of major league club owners and general managers. But Kuhn was the rule, rather than the exception.

Realignment of teams along geographical lines into four, six-team divisions or three eight-team leagues was the most discussed issue. It's no secret that the American League favors realignment, while some National League clubs are opposed.

Kuhn said it would take a unanimous vote at the November meetings in Hawaii to realign by 1974.

"There's no doubt that there's considerable interest and considerable opposition," Kuhn said. "It's difficult to forecast the outcome."

After the joint meeting, the American and National leagues met separately. Another joint meeting will be held today at the Alameda Plaza Hotel.

"This tends to be largely a discussion meeting," Kuhn said. "The meatier items will crop up at the winter meetings."

Realignment would set up some of the natural rivalries that baseball doesn't have. For instance, such teams as the New York Yankees and Mets and the Chicago White Sox and Cubs would be in the same division.

Jack, Arnie Head Field

HARRISON, N. Y. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus and defending champion Arnold Palmer, both with excellent past performance records at the Westchester Country Club, head the field in the $250,000 Westchester Golf classic starting Thursday with most of the top pros on hand except British Open champ Lee Trevino and Billy Casper.

Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and U.S. Open, won the inaugural Classic in 1967, won the Thunderbird over this course in 1965 and warmed up Wednesday with a five under par 34-33-67 in a celebrity program.

He played without a bandage on the finger that required minor surgery to relieve an infection before last week's PGA championship won by Gary Player.

"The nail was removed and it's angry looking but doesn't bother me a bit," said Nicklaus with his usual optimism.

An "underground" oddsmaker listed Big Jack as the 3-1 favorite in a probable field of 153. Palmer, who won the tournament by five strokes a year ago, was pegged at 7-1 along with Player as second choices. Arnie had a 68 in the pro-am event and Player a par 72 over the 8,700 yard layout.

Palmer not only romped in last year's Classic but twice won Thunderbird titles when that event was scheduled at the Westchester course. The Classic's $50,000 first prize would give him an important boost up the 1972 money ladder on which he now ranks 27th with $60,197.

"Twice in a row?" Palmer shrugged. "I'm playing pretty good but two years in a row?"

The $50,000 jackpot to the winner could cause quite a shakeup in the money list—or put Nicklaus out of sight. Jack already has won $190,213 to lead the parade, with the resting Trevino second at $134,097 and young Jerry Heard third with $124,577.

Heard, the 36-hole leader in the PGA championship, fired 53-33-64 in the warmup event Wednesday, one shot back of co-leaders Bruce Devlin, Doug Sanders and Bobby Nichols. In with '87's, in addition to Nicklaus, were Bob Murphy, George Archer, Paul Harney, Dewitt Weaver, Bob Roeburg and Bert Vancay.

Twenty-one players shot 69 or better, indicating Westchester's par may take quite a beating over the next four days with fair weather in prospect.

Sixty-year-old Sam Snead, who tied for fourth in the PGA, continued his surprising golf with a 69 in the warmup despite a cape of the shingles that caused severe swelling and nearly closed his right eye. He expected to tee off in the first round Thursday but conceded it was a day to day thing.

The tournament marks the pro debuts of Jim Simons of Wake Forest and Tom Kite of Texas. Simons was low amateur in the last two U.S. Open championships.

All Hail Steve Carlton

ance had any bearing on such a right field wall off Blass. "He threw me one of those big changes he's got," Carlton said, "and I managed to regain my balance and hit it."

The superlatives just wouldn't stop flowing Wednesday night in Pittsburgh as a day night in Pittsburgh left Carlton, a 6-foot 5 veteran left-hander, reeled off his 13th straight victory with a three-hitter to raise his record to 18-6—best in the National League—and struck out 12 batters to boost his major league leading total to 322 en route to a triumph over the Pirates.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta blanked Houston 6-0. San Diego beat San Francisco 5-2. Montreal de- feated the Chicago Cubs 8-2, Cincinnati turned back Los Angeles 6-3 and the New York Mets trimmed St. Louis 8-3.

To add insult to injury, Carlton also kicked in with his first home run of the season and fourth in his major league career—but that was just incidental.

"I just can't believe anyone can pitch better than he has," Phils Manager Paul Owens exulted after Carlton extended to 54 his string of innings without allowing an earned run. "And he's a competitor. You give him a run or two early and he blows the game apart, coming on in the seventh inning with

Central Hudson Shorts Astros

KINGSTON — Gary Miller drove in two runs as Central Hudson raked Rich Clausi for 18 hits.

And Rich Saltzman and John Cook hit three-baggers for the winners.

Five extra base hits, including a homer by Greg Kessman, sparked the Cash Register win.

Homers by John Dawson and Mike Bordick made it a close 8-6 after four, but the winners went on to score two in the sixth and a trio in the seventh.

Trailing 12-7 after four innings, Keyser's got it all together for a six-run eruption in the bottom of the fifth to shave LaLima's. Bob Norton connected for a homer and Bill Haber smacked two doubles for the winners. Don Throwbridge homered for the losers.

Despite managing only nine hits off Chris Farrell, Polacco's put them to good use to pull off a win. Jim Polacaco and Arnie slapped doubles while Edgar's sluggers Jim Whelan homered and Gil Combs tripled in a futile 15-hit effort.

Frank Misasi came within one inning of a shutout, but had to settle for a seven-hit victory over the Cabbies. Mike Jordan's home run supported the cause.

SAUGERTIES — Rosner's Hooples outslugged Knights of Columbus 16-10, as Tom Greco became the first 10-game winner in the Blue Division of the Saugerties Softball League.

Rosner's (10-2) are now a game and a half ahead of Boo's Tavern. A seven-run explosion in the seventh inning put the Hooples across. Roy Gillespy singled and homered and Bob Sinnott knocked in three runs.

Boo's erupted for 10 runs in the first inning and "stopped" Mr. T's Pizza 12-2 for Don Minkler's 7th win. Bob Schoenbacher led the assault with a single, triple, homer and three RBIs. Peanuts Northrup had a single and a homer.

Jeff Ostoyic of C&L Aquarium didn't allow an earned run in checking Mr. T's Pizza 7-2. Gary Richardson slugged three singles for the winners.

Your Horoscope

Friday, August 11

GENERAL TENDENCIES: LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The delays now taking place are for a very good reason so whatever projects or work you have in mind can be better accomplished by the extra time afforded you. The lessons you learn today also can stand you in good stead for a long time to come.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although your work may be frustrating today, don't let it get you down. Persevere and you still can gain your objective. What you need is the proper rest. Avoid one who gossip.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You would like to handle a financial affair today, but it would be better rapport with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get away from family worries and go to the amusements you enjoy, then return to them with renewed vigor. You are able to cultivate the right people and make headway in social life.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good day to have dental or other professional work done, so make an appointment early and stop worrying. Attend the social this evening and dress in excellent style.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Overwork would gain nothing new except frustration. Making new contacts of worth is your best bet. Put a little more punch in your regular activities and gain far better results.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An associate can be very amusing now, so sidestep obligations that are not too important and have fun. There are facets to your capabilities that have not yet been tapped.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) There could be some changes in your personal and business life today, but it is for the best. You can easily be more sure of your self now than you have for some time. Relax tonight.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make plans that will help you operate on a more modern theme and thereby derive greater benefits. Await a better time to take care of personal anxieties. You're too emotional right now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Concentrate on gaining personal aims now and find the right friends who can help you. Sidestep advisers who are cold and calculating right now. Don't rely too much on your intuition.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day to confer with higher-up who is in a most irritable mood, but fine for discussing matters with an associate. Your intuitive facilities are working well. Rely on them.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

LETTERS: (Q.) This boy gave me one of his senior pictures and wrote some nice things on it. One thing he wrote was: "You are a very sweet person and I hope we get to see each other in the future."

He will be going to college in September and I will be in the eleventh grade. I want to write to him at college. Would this seem like I am chasing after him or being too forward? Also, I don't know his address at college so should I write to him at his home first? — Interested in Indiana.

(A.) If this boy has given you so little attention that you have to write to him to ask for an address, I doubt that he cares enough to correspond with you.

Your best recourse is to be in places where he can see you in the time before he leaves. When you see him, be friendly. Perhaps he will ask you for a date. That would give you the opportunity to discuss writing him and find out if he is interested in doing so.

Unless you get to know him better in person, you will probably be wasting your time writing to him.

CRACKED LIPS: (Q.) When I wake up in the morning my lips are dry and cracked and usually bloody. I hate this but what can I do? — Dry in Virginia.

(A.) Ask at your drug or department store for a stick of lip ointment. It is packaged like lipstick but is colorless. Put it on your lips at night before you go to bed, and during the day if you need it.

WHY WE SAY

BARBER'S POLE

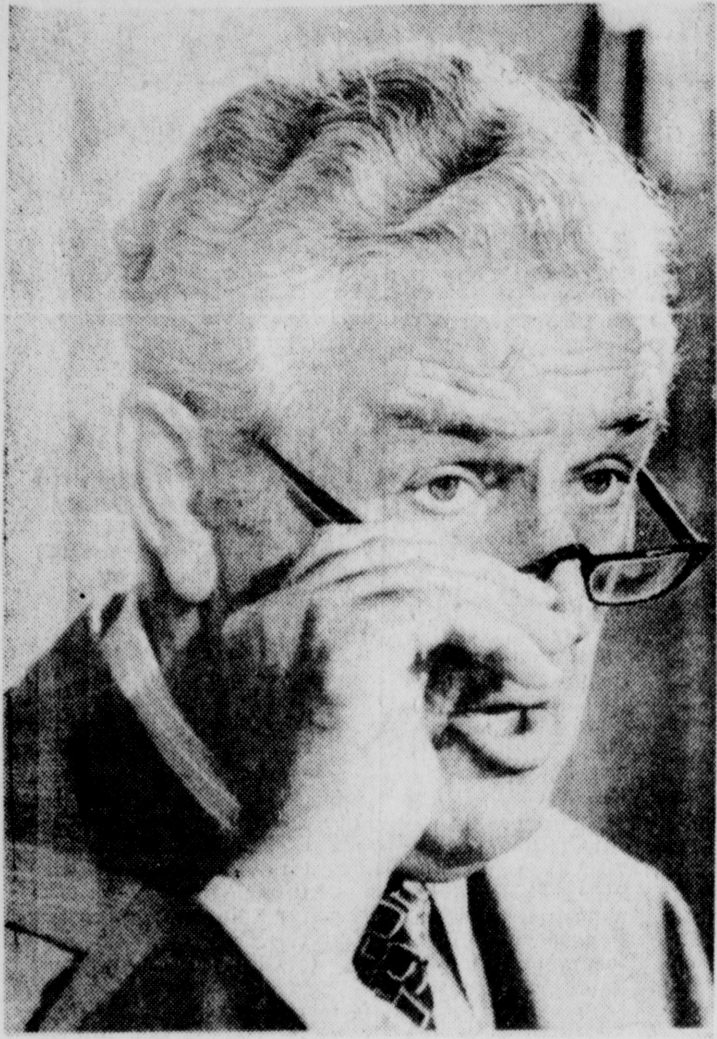

ALSO SURGEON: This usual sign in front of barbershops started years ago when a barber was also a surgeon. The pole represents a rail to which the patient would cling during the operation. The red stripes came about from the hanging of the blood-stained bandages over the pole to dry after the operation.

CRITICAL OF MCGOVERN — Former Treasury Secretary John Connally opened a Democrats-for-Nixon drive and accused Senator McGovern of turning his own party into "an ideological machine" closed to millions of loyal Democrats. Connally, the only Democrat in Nixon's cabinet until his resignation earlier this year, said the group would stay out of Congressional and local races. (UPI/TELEPHOTO)

Democrats for Nixon . . . Two Organizations Formed

By United Press International

Two separate organizations have been formed with the common goal of enticing dissident Democrats into supporting President Nixon. The groups are headed by John B. Connally, former Democratic governor of Texas, and Floyd B. McKissick, former director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Connally will serve as national chairman of the Democrats for Nixon Committee, a group with 41 vice-chairmen including business executives, entertainers, athletes and politicians.

McKissick said his group, to be called the National Committee for a Two-Party System, will enable Democrats and other blacks who would not support any other pro-Nixon group to work for his reelection in November.

Connally, the only Democrat in Nixon's Cabinet until his resignation as Treasury secretary earlier this year, announced in Washington Wednesday that his group would attempt to raise between $2 million and $3 million for Nixon's campaign coffers this fall. He said the group will avoid congressional and local races and concentrate on enlisting Democrats in behalf of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Connally attacked Sen. George S. McGovern's campaign forces. "Rarely in our history," he said, "has a group holding temporary control of a political party done so much to alienate rank-and-file members of that party whose only sin is to have differing views."

He added that the Democratic party, instead of becoming more open, "is becoming an ideological machine closed to millions of Americans who have been the party's most loyal and steadfast members."

Connally estimated that 20 million Democrats had already decided that "President Nixon always seen that as the turning point in the campaign." The total Democratic vote for Hubert H. Humphrey in the 1968 election was 31.3 million.

Connally said the treasurer of the new organization would be Leonard H. Marks, former director of the U.S. Information Agency in the Johnson Administration.

The list of vice-chairmen ranged from entertainers Sammy Davis Jr. and Fank Sinatra to IBM executive chairman Thomas J. Watson Jr. and Robert F. Six-president of Continental Airlines.

In New York, McKissick told a news conference that his group will also work towards Nixon's re-election. "I'm a believer in the development of a strong two party system. We'll never solve the problems as long as blacks participate in one half," he said.

As the anti-McGovern sentiment was voiced, The Democratic National Committee ended its meeting in Washington by compromising a dispute over party control.

George McGovern today kicks off the first major campaign trip in his come-from-behind run for the White House, returning to New Hampshire where it all began five months ago.

With a new running mate finally selected and approved, the Democratic presidential candidate planned hectic two-day swing to Manchester, N.H., Hartford, Conn., Providence, R.I., and New York City.

The first stop is the J.F. McElwain Co. shoe factory in Manchester, a largely symbolic appearance for McGovern. He says it was his appearance there last Feb. 18 during the New Hampshire primary campaign that he first fully appreciated his appeal to blue-collar workers.

"That's the place where it became apparent to me that these factory workers were sympathetic," McGovern said in Washington Wednesday. "I've always seen that as the turn-

Jane Fonda Subpoena Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Internal Security Committee called a closed session today to discuss a member's request that actress Jane Fonda be subpoenaed to testify about her antiwar activities.

Rep. Fletcher Thompson of Georgia, third-ranking GOP member of the nine-man panel, asked the committee to subpoena Miss Fonda for questioning concerning "the entire realm of (her) activities while in the enemy capital of Hanoi and in communist North Vietnam."

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the basically conservative committee, told a reporter Wednesday that Miss Fonda "obviously was being used by the North Vietnamese."

As for whether she should be subpoenaed, Ichord said he would consult all members of the committee.

Ichord said also the question of giving Miss Fonda an official forum for expressing her views may influence the decision.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a committee member who has repeatedly fought the panel's investigative activities, said he would oppose any attempt to force Miss Fonda to submit to questioning if it meant that Thompson, who is running this year for the Senate, would use the sessions as a publicity device.

On July 18, Thompson said in a House speech that according to radio reports Miss Fonda was "calling upon the American service personnel to disobey the orders of the U.S. government and, indeed, to desert and to turn themselves in to the North Vietnamese."

Thompson added: "Mr. Speaker, declared war, undecared war, police action, whatever it may be—if the report is true, this is treason, and it is time that this government took some action against people such as Jane Fonda who have given aid and comfort to our enemy . . ."

Thompson also said he was asking the attorney general to bring charges of treason against the actress if the reports are true.

In Paris on July 25, after her Hanoi trip, Miss Fonda said she had made daily broadcasts over Hanoi radio, but "I did not say what I am accused of saying."

According to the State Department, the North Vietnamese used antipersonnel artillery shells with fuses set for air bursts, which "shredded the refugee column" with sprays of shrapnel.

But frontline witnesses reported no air bursts before April 30 — any such would have killed troops of the enemy's own ambush force as well as the fleeing South Vietnamese.

Air bursts were fired by North Vietnamese gunners April 30-May 1 and many civilians were hit. By then the civilians were intermingled with South Vietnamese rangers fighting their way out of Quang Tri.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union may buy between 250 million and 400 million bushels of U.S. wheat, as much as one-fourth of this year's crop.

Officials say a number of private companies are involved in transactions, including one whose Soviet sales operations are headed by a former U.S. assistant secretary of agriculture.

Wheat market prices in the Midwest have risen sharply in recent days, reflecting rumors that a massive sale to Moscow is imminent. In Kansas City the price has climbed from $1.57 per bushel to $1.84.

If the big sale materializes, a 400-million-bushel transaction—and some sources say it could be even more—would be equal to nearly half the present U.S. wheat surplus and a fourth of the 1972 crop, estimated at less than 1.6 billion bushels.

Asst. Agriculture Secretary Carroll G. Brunthaver said Wednesday in an interview that there has been tremendous demand for wheat in the market, presumably by private companies seeking grain for the Soviets.

"We keep hearing eight to 10 million tons," about 296 million to 375 million bushels, Brunthaver said. "That's entirely possible. Whether it's more than that, I don't know."

One of the export firms involved is Continental Grain Co., New York, which recently hired former Asst. Secretary Clarence D. Palmby, Brunthaver's predecessor, to head up its export-sales operations for the Soviet market.

Palmby was closely involved in U.S.-Soviet negotiations earlier this year. He resigned shortly before President Nixon announced on July 8 that the Soviet Union had agreed to buy at least $750 million worth of U.S. grain over the next three years.

Continental and another firm, Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, sold nearly 3 million tons of livestock feed grain to the Soviet Union last year, the first U.S. grain sale to that country in nearly a decade.

When the White House announced the new pact last month, most of the initial orders were thought to be for corn and other feed, although wheat was included in the options.

Since then, however, the Soviets have shown interest in substantial wheat purchases, a fact that has helped boost market prices here.

The Soviet Union wants feed grain to help increase livestock, dairy and poultry supplies for consumers. Wheat has come into the picture, however, because of huge losses to the Soviets' winter crops.
